SHANGHAI POLICE AGREEMENT SIGNED

Gambling, vice and other forms of lawlessness in the Shanghai Badlands have been a constant cause for concern to the Shanghai Municipal Council. Recently, after protracted negotiation between the Council and the Greater Shanghai Municipal Government, an agreement was signed providing for the establishment of a joint police force in the territory to deal with the problem. Mr. W. J. Keswick, signed as Chairman of the Council. He is shown above at the ceremony, which took place at the Kiangwan Civic Centre. His arm is still in a sling, after he was shot during the sensational ruffians' meeting by a Japanese. In the picture also is Mr. R. T. Bryan, Jr., Municipal Advocate. At right, Mayor Chen preparing to sign the document. Below, Mr. Keswick, Mayor Chen and Mr. G. Godfrey Phillips, Secretary of the Council, toast the success of the new arrangement. TRADE UNION LEADER DIES

Mr. W. A. Appleton, the 80-year-old trade union leader, has died at his home in Ashwell, Herts. Working his way up from the bottom in the lace and hosiery machinery trade, he became secretary of the General Federation of Trade Unions in 1907, a position which he held for 31 years.

When he retired he declined a £250 a year pension, on the grounds that he wanted to leave the position "with dignity and freedom." The Federation placed on record that he had brought to bear on his duties "qualities of mind and heart that have endeared him to all."

FOR THE 1 MAN IN 7 WHO SHAVES EVERY DAY

A Special Shave Cream—It's Not a Soap, Needs No Brush!

Daily shaving leaves many men's faces raw and sensitive. Yet, because of his business and social status, one out of every 7 men must shave every day.

To meet this condition, Williams has now developed GLIDER—a special cream for daily shavers. With no soap base, it's a complete departure from ordinary shave creams. No brush. No lather. Not sticky or greasy.

A superabundance of moisture is contained in this rich cream. It won't dry on your face. Applied with the fingers, it quickly softens each whisker. A protective layer is formed over which your razor glides. Off comes each hair at the base without scraping. Like a cold cream, Glider helps keep your skin smooth all day. Glider is the result of nearly 100 years' experience in making fine shaving preparations.

The British Navy's Victories of Peace

by
"TAFFRAIL"

Long Record of Civilian Protection and Merciful Aid Fighting Slavery, Piracy, Famine and Plague

The Royal Navy of Britain has a tremendous task to-day. It fights against the ships, the submarines and the air forces of Germany and Italy; and attacks their military bases. It enforces a rigid blockade of those countries. It keeps open and defends the sea-roads by which supplies reach Britain. And it alone makes possible communication between Latin America and the British Isles.

In this war, the Royal Navy has once again proved the tremendous weight of a British sea-power in battle and in economic war.

But the Royal Navy has a wider field of activity, and one that affects the peace and progress of all lands.

Every day, aboard the ships of the British Navy, the chaplain reads a prayer written in the seventeenth century.

That prayer describes the Navy as: "A safeguard . . . a security for such as pass on the seas on their lawful occasions."

This the Royal Navy is indeed. Its work for the security of the seas never ceases. Gunboats and sloops are always in the Red Sea and Persian Gulf to prevent traffic in slaves, and the running of arms and ammunition. Little white gunboats far inland up the rivers in China have frequently been called upon to protect lives and property, to rescue and succour the victims of floods, and to assist relief work during epidemics.

An incident that occurred some years ago in China comes to my mind. Seamen and marines had to be landed at an up-river port, and for hours an armed guard of steel-helmeted men stood shoulder to shoulder facing a frenzied mob that shrieked at them and bombarded them with missiles.

If a single man had lost his temper and struck out there would have been a ghastly outbreak of violence. The situation was saved by the steadiness and good humour of the men. They were wonderful. They smiled at the mob. They even shared their rations with the children.

The Navy has a long record of relief work in hurricanes, earthquakes, and other disasters. It has frequently protected civilians during revolutions and riots. It has, in innumerable instances, given aid to ships in distress ships of all nations.

Before the war, the cruisers "Exeter" and "Ajax," which afterwards became famous in the battle of the River Plate, took an active part in relief work after an earthquake in Chile. They transported many refugees, and carried in their aircraft the vaccines necessary to save life.

Every year, normally, one of His Majesty's ships visits the lonely island of Tristan da Cunha, in the South Atlantic, to land stores and supplies for the inhabitants. This visit is one of the island's few links with the outer world.

During the Civil War in Spain, British men-of-war, large and small, were converted into floating hostels for hundreds of refugees. Officers, including Commanders, gave up their cabins to women and children. Decks were screened off to provide living quarters. Meals were served in relays with seamen acting as cooks and waiters.

An officer in a destroyer showed his inventive genius by manufacturing babies' feeding bottles out of soda-water bottles. This ship massed, by a matter of minutes, having her complement increased by one. The baby was born ashore.

In some ships, officers and men camped out as best they could for weeks at a time to provide the refugees with shelter. This meant discomfort, to say the least of it, particularly in the destroyers, where space is very cramped. But the sailors didn't care. It was their job. The Navy, proud to do what it could, and adaptable as ever, entered thoroughly into the spirit of the thing, and seems somehow to have enjoyed itself.

I have read many letters of gratitude addressed to the British Admiralty by foreign Governments. I have read, too, many touching tributes from private people of various nationalities who have been helped. A phrase that occurs very frequently is: "I shall be grateful to the British Navy all my life."

One man wrote: "I was truly proud of the quiet efficiency, and still more of the kindly spirit, with which the task of evacuating us was carried out . . . I could only marvel at the unfailing kindness and consideration of each and every sailor to all the refugees, especially to the old, the feeble, and the children. It was simply wonderful."

An old Irish lady, rescued from a dangerous situation, and given the captain's cabin in a destroyer, wrote: "May God and Our Lady bless and protect the British Navy for evermore."

Another grateful person wrote that the sailors themselves had not been ashore for weeks and were themselves short of food; but went shorter still so that the rescued could be fed.

Throughout its long history, the Royal Navy of Britain has been a safeguard for those in distress or affliction.

It is clear proof of the power and adaptability of the British Navy that it can turn from these tasks of peace to the stern duties of a great war, and perform them with all the vigour and courage of a fighting race.

To-day the British Navy is in battle or on the watch on all the seas of the world. It is a vital element in Britain's plan for victory. But it should be remembered that, when there is no war job to be done, the Royal Navy is still busy, every day, in the interests of humanity and the safety of the seas.

LEND & LEASE BILL

THE approval of the Lend and Lease Bill by the House of Representatives is a triumph for the Roosevelt Administration, not only politically, but in its accurate estimate of the present-day temper of American public opinion. Determined, but unavailing was the Republican opposition to the main features of the measure, but the House's approval was assured when amendment after amendment was defeated. The Bill has yet to obtain the acquiescence of the Senate, where a closer vote is likely, but its final approval by Congress is now virtually assured.

The gesture is symbolic of the new and closer relations obtaining between Britain and the United States; it gives practical expression to a real and deep sympathy for the cause of the British Empire against the machinations of the Axis Powers which seek to destroy all those institutions which are held so dear by Americans.

The moral effect of this willingness by the United States to extend all aid possible will be tremendous and beneficial to Britain, where millions of souls calmly await the full might of the German war machine. The knowledge that a large proportion of the vast resources of the U.S. are to be made available to Britain will not only provide a wonderful stimulus to that nation which now has her back to the wall, but a fear-some and discouraging obstacle to Nazi aspirations.

A striking feature of the debates and committee forums in Washington on the Lend and Lease measure has been the highly intelligent and constructive arguments advanced by both sides. There are sound, logical grounds for some of the apprehensions advanced by the opposition. The truth is that the United States is taking a most important, and virtually irrevocable step; its repercussions are destined to be felt throughout the world. It places the United States as the officially acknowledged enemy of the Axis; it is a challenge to them which, perhaps, they will find themselves unable to ignore. The Bill may well shape the future history of the entire world; its implications are comprehensive to a degree which must impress Japan as much as they will Germany and Italy. When the measure becomes law, the world generally will know that, so far as the United States is concerned, the die has been cast. The thought is both exhilarating and sobering.

Hitler and his gang will curse the day
they first made use of the secret weapon
that has helped them so far on their evil path

When OUR Fifth Column Is In Action

It is possible that Hitler's material resources of the occupied territories. Column as being his. Britain began this most important secret war with many disadvantages. But, like most advantages, the chief one was a secret weapon. It can be being that Hitler's plans countered, and even in had been crowned with the end turned into a success for six years. stronger weapon against the original user.

The Nazis to-day occupy several countries, but they have definitely not conquered them. Daily, despite an extreme censorship of all news within these countries of the "New Order," come underground accounts of sabotage and silent, secret war-fare against the hated invaders whose one aim appears to be to exploit ruthlessly and without mercy the human and

Hated Invader
To-day we now have the signal advantage that in not one single European country is the Nazi invader even tolerated. He is loathed and

By Arthur Armstrong

hated—hated more and more as day succeeds day. His exploitation of Europe, his plundering of occupied territories, and, most of all, his forcible creation of millions of labour-slaves is gradually bringing great populations to such a state that they may, at any moment, become so embittered that they will turn savagely on arms are not tired, nor have their minds lost any keenness. At the head of those who lead the regeneration of the Czechs will undoubtedly be handsome Jan Masaryk, son of the famous founder of Czechoslovakia. His inspired broadcasts ring like a clarion call across the sea to his countrymen; and nobody hearing him can doubt but that the efforts of this dynamical man in the cause of the Czechs do not stop at mere words over the air.

In connection with Czechoslovakia it is a fact of interest and significance that the Nazis are now known to be transferring their war plants from the dangerous west—where the R.A.F. makes free play—to the "safer" east in the countryside of Bohemia. One day wholesale Czech sabotage—a symptom already much in evidence—may destroy most of those war plants which have survived the R.A.F. When the time comes for the British offensive to start there is not the slightest chance that the Germans will be able to divert more than a proportion of their forces to meet it. Rather they may have to reduce their present available forces to meet it. Rather they may have to reduce their present available forces to increase the garrisons in occupied territories where risings are likely to break out.

The elaborate underground network of conspiracy, already a living thing in workshops and homes of Czechoslovakia, will by that time have a vital counterpart elsewhere. In Holland there is plenty of evidence that the democratic and freedom-loving population will rise in vengeance against the oppressor. In Belgium it is the same. The Danes have found for themselves a newly-created national spirit. The Norwegians are the same, and could deal deadly blows at the Germans.

Nothing makes it more clear that this is fully realised by the British than the daily broadcasts in French, Polish, Dutch, Belgian, Norwegian and Czech, spoken by "Free" nationals of those unhappy countries. Just as the broadcasters are well aware that they have tens of thousands of listeners, so the Gestapo are cognisant of this disconcerting fact, but the Gestapo cannot stop messages getting through. They can organise the jamming of broadcasts or attempt to do so. They can hunt out victims—and many of them—but that is not preventing a great number of patriots on the Continent hearing what Hitler least wants them to hear.

The Nursery

Here is the nursery of the Fifth Column against Hitler.

Nothing makes it more clear that this is fully realised by the British than the daily broadcasts in French, Polish, Dutch, Belgian, Norwegian and Czech, spoken by "Free" nationals of those unhappy countries. Just as the broadcasters are well aware that they have tens of thousands of listeners, so the Gestapo are cognisant of this disconcerting fact, but the Gestapo cannot stop messages getting through. They can organise the jamming of broadcasts or attempt to do so. They can hunt out victims—and many of them—but that is not preventing a great number of patriots on the Continent hearing what Hitler least wants them to hear.

The Nazi chiefs are as well aware as the British Government that every body of "Free" nationals organised in Britain has its own army of agents at work among its oppressed fellow countrymen, working relentlessly underground to prepare their minds for the time when a day arrives which will not be "Der Tag" for the Germans.

But again, the Nazis can only weed out the less clever and resourceful of these "Free" agents. Some will assuredly vanish, the others will pursue their grim task.

Czechs To Fore

The spearhead of this anti-Nazi drive is already known to be Czechoslovakia—for the Czechs, swamped and tricked but not pounded by high explosives like the other Nazi victims, are not in the shocked state where their virility has still to recover itself. Their spirits are burning at white heat. Their

Deadly Blows

Few who know the French can doubt that in time they must arise from their apathetic stupor and turn on their hereditary enemy.

But it will be the Poles—the nation which has never known a Quisling—who will make the greatest effort of all to smash, break and hurl to destruction the race who have carried out the most horrible of brutal deeds. They have suffered a worse savagery than any of the others.

Attila and his Huns could not have surpassed the brutalities done to the people of Poland.

What a Nemesis is coming to the German race and in a lesser degree to their traitorous Italian partners! Even within the boundaries of the totalitarian States there are signs that we will have many willing allies—slaves who want nothing from us but the right encouragement, so that they can fight their own wars of liberation.

In the empire of Hitler himself there are millions who hate the Nazi regime (it need only be remembered that less than ten years ago more than 12,000,000 people) voted Communist; they can hardly all have reversed their true opinions in the interval.)

Vital Conclusion

There is one thing we can learn from Hitler's strategy during the war, and from which we can draw a vital conclusion. If the Nazis are to be defeated it will not be only by war on land, sea and air or by the blockade; the spontaneous uprising and the wielding of the revolutionary weapon against the Nazis will cause their whole structure to disintegrate. It will be then that the leaders of the Third Reich will understand to the full the real meaning of the words "Fifth Column." They will curse the day they first made use of this secret weapon.

Some Little Fables of To-day

By HANNEN SWAFFER

THEY wandered over the scarred war-fields. The grass was black with powder, and with fire that had long gone out.

Things that had been men were lying everywhere, and where once harvests had ripened in the sun-shine was blood and wreckage.

Overhead, smoke gathered into a pall, and the groans and curses of the dying echoed where larks were wont to sing of summer.

"This is the end of all things," said one in an agony of hopelessness, "all that we strove for and dreamed of, all that God meant to us, all that on which we built our hopes of Heaven. The Devil, indeed, has won."

But his friend, even amid the horror, was smiling. He had seen, bursting among the chaos, the petals of a flower—the promise of another spring-time. "God's work is still going on," he said. "As it is with the stricken earth, so 'tis with the souls of men!"

A MAN, riding through a swollen stream, came to a hole in the river bed so deep that the water nearly covered his saddle. Just then, seeing near him a fine, strapping horse—an animal hands higher than his own—he started to change mounts.

But an old man on the bank knew about such things. "Never swap horses while crossing the stream," he shouted.

"That's all very well," replied the man in trouble, "but I've just discovered that I'm riding a donkey!"

A LOT of lambs were defending themselves against many more wolves. So they dressed themselves in wolves' clothing and looked very fierce.

"Now the wolves will be frightened, and behave like lambs," they said.

But the wolves didn't. They went on eating lambs like anything. When you make war on wolves you must be wolves yourselves.

THE War Lord dreamed. In the Land of Shadows the Prince of Punishment meted justice out. "They are your dead," he said, "count them!"

Bodies stretched for miles, bodies that once were strong men in their prime, shapes that, only days before, had leapt with the joyousness of youth, the figures of women yesterday glad in their motherhood, and the lifeless shells that had shone only with an infant's half-born smile.

So to his long task, the War Lord bent. "You are one out!" thundered the tyrant who ruled there, when the War Lord had reckoned up the toll. And again the War Lord reckoned, until the hundreds were thousands and the thousands millions.

"You are still one out!" mocked the tormentor. You haven't counted yourself!"

Those who first take up the sword point it at their own hearts.

COARSE men, with race-glasses, filled two hundred and seventy-five motor-cars, and burned eleven hundred gallons of petrol—which the nation wanted—on the journey to the race-course.

As they rode, they passed big bills which implored economy. They smiled.

"You can't say we're using petrol for pleasure," remarked one, emphasising the last word with a grin. Then he went on the course and shouted: "Three to one the field!"

War or no war, you must keep up the breed of horses.

A COOK PHEASANT was pluming his feathers as, before a hen, he strutted in the spring sunshine. There were quite a lot of other pheasants about—he had more rivals than usual this year.

"Men don't seem to have done so much shooting last winter," he said. Every bullet doesn't hit YOU.

HE had finished early two rounds of golf, and had nothing to do. "I may as well go and register," he thought.

But, to his surprise, the doctors rejected him. A varicose vein, or something in his leg, would not let him march, they said. Besides, he was an inch short.

And so there was nothing in the war that he could do to help his country?

Wondering, he stopped before a shop. In the window, surrounded by the sort of engravings which the middle classes call art, was a picture of a very little man wearing a uniform covered with medals, but—wonderful to relate—possessing only one arm and one eye.

It was Nelson. "He seems to have been a pretty useful cripple," said the rejected man, as he went back to do acrobatic dances at a bottle party.

Even if you lose a toe you can win a battle.

MEMBERS of Parliament wanted to know things, so they asked lots of questions. "Well," said a Minister. "I'll inquire into it."

Members wanted to know other things, and they asked more questions. "Well," said the Minister. "I'll make inquiries."

And at the end, nobody knew anything more than when he started to ask. Truth lies at the bottom of a well—well!

Agreed To Alter Classification Ministry Official Gaoled For Bribe

AN official of the Ministry of Labour and National Service was recently sentenced to the maximum of four months' hard labour and fined £50 at Stratford, E., for accepting a £25 bribe. He was Maurice Louis Miels, of Wentworth Gardens, Palmers Green, employed at Walthamstow Labour Exchange.

When he had been found guilty the police revealed that he was sentenced to a month's imprisonment at Bristol in 1927 for receiving stolen property, and in January, 1935, received six concurrent sentences of 18 months' imprisonment for fraudulent conversion.

Investigation

Alderman F. H. Dane, a magistrate: "How can a man with such a record get a responsible position with the Ministry?"

Mr H. A. K. Morgan (prosecuting) said Miels went to them with excellent references, but these would now be investigated.

Miels was employed in checking classifications of persons due to serve under the Military Service Act. He received £25 for altering the trade classification of Harold Green, managing director of a firm making gowns, to ensure that he would be in the list of reserved occupations. Miels, on being asked that Green was not a Jew, said: "I am fed up with twisting Jews, trying to get out of military service, but as Gentile to Gentile, I will do what I can for you. I don't see why Jews should be the only ones to evade military service."

£50 And Clothes

Green asked, "How much is this going to cost?" and Miels replied, "£50."

Green said he could not pay it, and Miels replied: "Pay me £25 now, £25 later, and supply me with clothes for myself, my wife and daughter at wholesale prices for the duration of the war."

Counsel said Green did not wish to evade military service, but a further appointment was made. Green went to the police, and from then on acted on their instructions.

S. AMERICA British Mission Leaves After Great Success

BOGOTA, Colombia, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—Members of the British Trade Mission to South America are leaving here to-morrow after a most successful five-day visit. There have been unrestrained demonstrations of sympathy for the cause of the British Empire.

Oil And Royal Navy Subdue Italians

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—The British Fleet is the foremost cause of the apparent paralysis of Italy, says the naval correspondent of the Swedish paper, "Stockholm Tidningen."

It is not known, he declares, whether the Italian Fleet and Air Force have taken measures to deal with attacks like that on Genoa. One impression of the paralysis, gained during the last three months, is probably a shortage of fuel, but the foremost is the presence of the British Fleet.

Poor Woman's Unknown £20,000 In Tin Box

"A MOST romantic story"—in the words of the judge—of treasure in a tin box was told in the Chancery Division recently. Securities of the value of £20,000, it was stated, were found in a tin box in the home of a woman who was living in poverty and was about to be taken to a poor-house.

Before the Court was a summons taken out by Westminster Bank Limited, the administrators of Nathan William Perrott, Caroline Perrott and Caroline Elizabeth Barker.

Granddaughter's Claim

Mr Menzies Over War Area

CAIRO, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—Mr R. G. Menzies, the Australian Federal Premier, has returned from a 36-hour visit to the Bardia area, in which he was accompanied by General Sir Thomas Blamey, Commanding the Australian forces overseas.

The party travelled in an R.A.F. plane and flew low over the battle zone, enabling Mr Menzies to follow the whole story of the brilliant campaign.

Mr Menzies' visit was marked by an atmosphere of friendliness and good cheer.

50 PLANES BOMB KUNMING

—Little Damage

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAM". KUNMING, Feb. 10 (Central News).—Fifty Japanese naval planes flying in relays raided Kunming yesterday.

Harassed by heavy Chinese anti-aircraft fire, the raiders were forced to operate at such a height as to make accurate bombing impossible. Most of the bombs missed their objectives, and the damage done was inconsequential.

BELATED REPLY TO A PROTEST

U.S. Mission Said Bombed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—In reply to the United States protest against the bombing of an American mission in Anglo-Egyptian Sudan last August, the Italian Government has denied that the attack was made by Italian planes.

It declares that according to a report received from the Italian East African High Command, "the report of the bombardment of the mission is a broadcast by the British is unfounded, so far as we are concerned."

Americans Leave Shanghai

CHUNGKING, Feb. 11 (Central News).—About 100 American missionaries and more than ten family members of American professors of the St. John's University left Shanghai yesterday aboard a President liner to return to America in accordance with the U.S. Government's advice to evacuate.

FANCHENG, Feb. 10 (Central News).—A Japanese plane was brought down by Chinese anti-aircraft guns at Wangshuanlin, north of Tungpeh in south Honan, on February 1.

How To Rally After ILLNESS

It's an uphill business getting your strength back after serious illness or operation. There's only one thing that can help you—moulage, plenty of it. But your stomach is as weak as your legs and you hate the thought and sight of food.

Doctors save the situation time and again by giving the convalescent patient Horlicks. It is food in a form which places no strain on the exhausted digestion—and its pleasant flavour restores the faded appetite. Horlicks is a complete balanced food, containing all the elements needed for filling out the wasted body with healthy flesh and repairing lacerated nerves.

Thousands of people owe their quick recovery to the abundant vitality and energy that Horlicks has poured into their veins. Get Horlicks from your store to-day. Always keep a supply in the house. (3)

Too Old To Work

Nathan, who was a wood-turner, and Caroline Perrott had lived with their daughter Elizabeth in a very frugal, small way.

After the deaths of Nathan and Caroline Perrott, Elizabeth earned her living sometimes by selling flowers in the street and sometimes by cleaning.

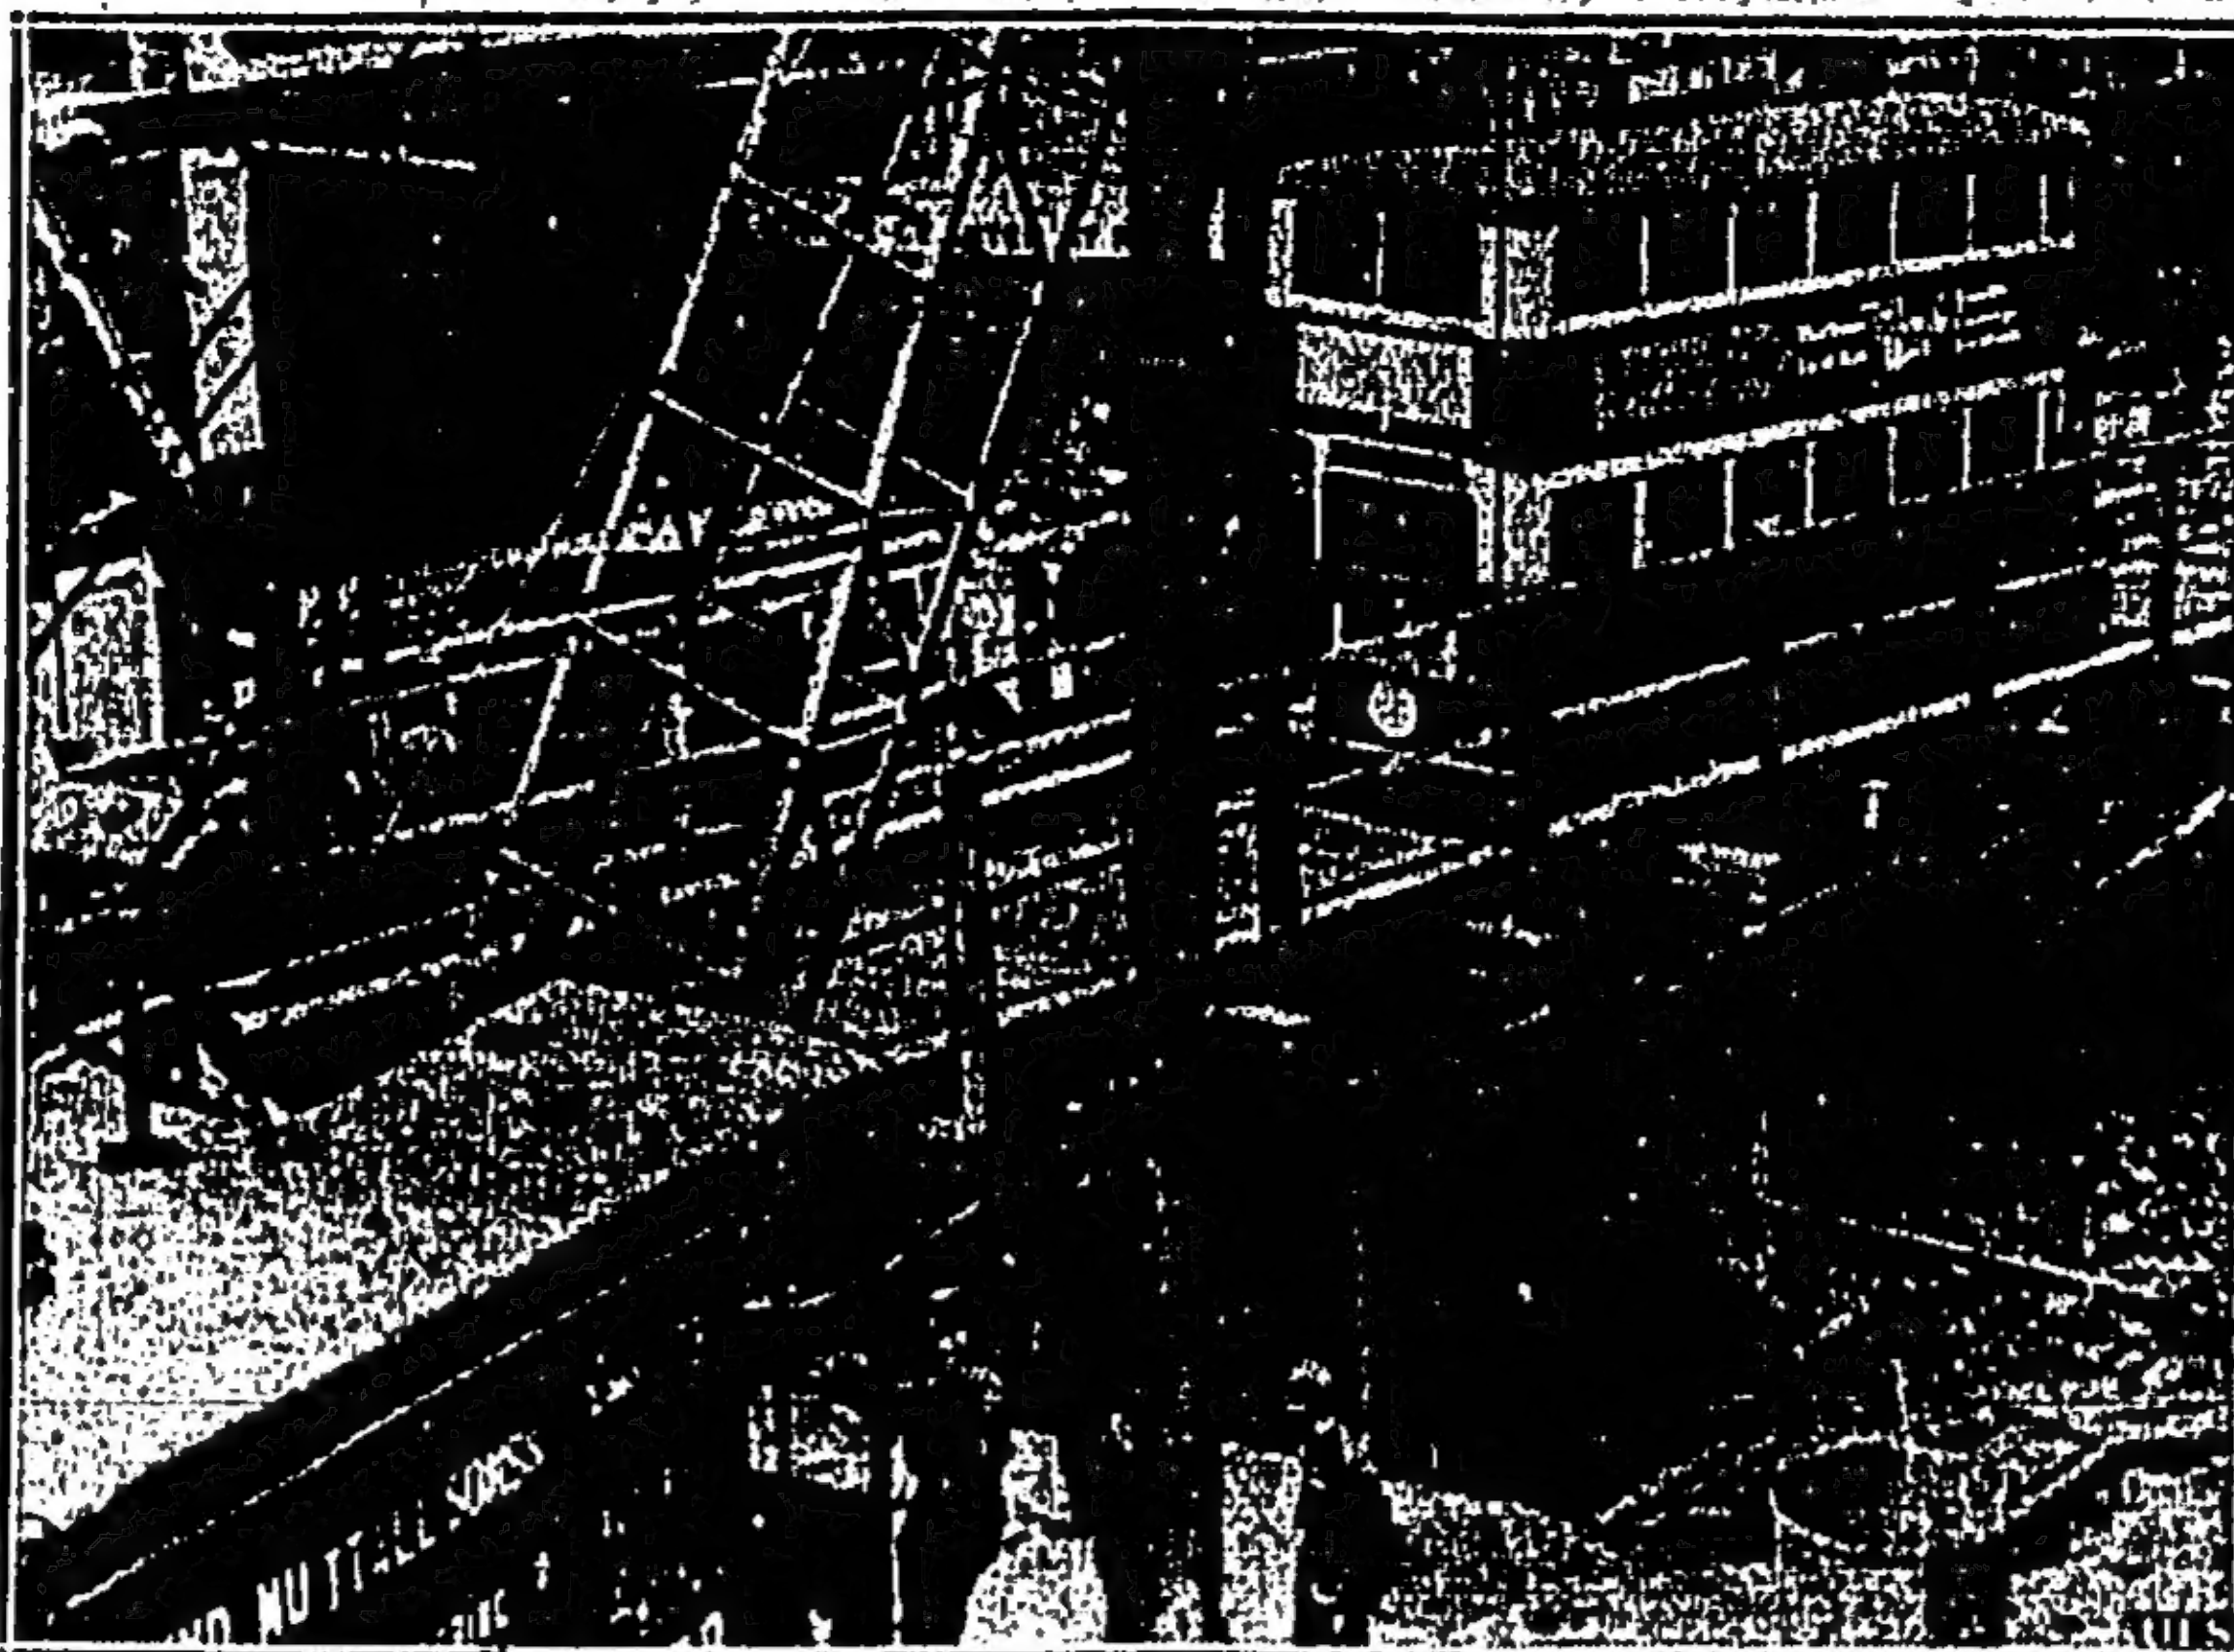

When she became too old to work it was suggested, in 1938, that she should go into a "poor-house."

Box Broken Open

Miss Perrott then spoke of a locked tin box which her father had left and which had never been opened.

The box was broken open. Mr Hunt explained, and in it were found securities which, with accumulated interest, were now worth about £20,000.

Justice Morton decided that the marriage could be presumed and that the bank could deal with the estate accordingly.

BRITISH SPIRIT—Recently this London street was a normal thoroughfare, without any hole or bridge. Then Hitler's airmen let loose a bomb and put a crater there. Royal Engineers immediately built this bridge and traffic moves as usual.

Greek Islander Asked R.A.F. Men "Are Youse Guys English?"

THREE weary men—the crew of an R.A.F. bomber reported "missing, feared killed," after attacking an Albanian port—returned after two days to their station in Greece with an extraordinary story to tell.

Their plane was hit and severely damaged during the raid, but, although thrown on its back by the explosion, it would still fly.

This is what the squadron-leader had to say about their subsequent adventures.

"We flew for nearly two hours and then spotted a tiny island. We found only one place to attempt a landing—a strip of beach about 20 yards wide.

Crew Stayed

"I gave the chance of jumping to the crew, but they preferred to stand by me. We put the aircraft down safely, although the wheels would not come down and we made a belly landing.

"Peasants rushed away screaming. We put our hands up and yelled, 'Ingles! Ingles!'

"A look of wonderment spread over one man's face and he replied with a definite American accent, 'Are youse guys English?'

After borrowing the islanders' only car, soon after destroyed by a bomb, the R.A.F. men sailed by night in a fishing boat to the mainland.

Rough weather forced them into a mainland port after 20 hours at sea.

He Made A Speech

"Here we had a grand reception," said the squadron leader.

"All of us were carried shoulder high round the village, being kissed by men, women and children alike. 'Bouquets showered on us, we were given bottles of local wine and led by the mayor and corporation to the town hall.

"I had to make a speech, but as it was in English I do not imagine much of it got over. The most popular part was when I said 'Mussolini' in grim tones and made a sign. That fairly brought the house down."

Loaded with gifts, the R.A.F. men were given a car and set off on the mountain trail.

They finished the journey back to their station by walking, car and train.

MONEY FOR GLIDERS

WITH a view to promoting popular air-mindedness and as a step towards training more air pilots, a movement has been launched by the China branch of the International Peace Campaign among its two million members to raise funds for a squadron of gliders. The sum of $100,000 has already been collected, states a message from Chungking.

Mrs Sheriff Is Surprised

MRS CHRISTINE STELLA WAY, of Garthmyl Hall, Garthmyl, Montgomeryshire, nominated at the Law Courts for the office of sheriff of her county, said, "I hope not."

Mr Justice Singleton selected her name during the ceremony of nominating new sheriffs for England and Wales.

The first woman sheriff, Mrs. Forster Welch, was elected for the county borough of Southampton in November 1920.

SOIL FROM SIX COUNTRIES

Soil from each of the six counties of Northern Ireland was sprinkled over the grave at the funeral of Lord Craigavon in Belfast. It was taken from a bowl used for the same purpose at the funeral of Lord Carson.

'Republic' Eliminated From Petain's State

Marshal Petain has eliminated the word "republic" from official documents, the official Gazette having appeared with the new title: "Journal Officiel of the French State," instead "of the French Republic," says United Press.

Petaim also assumed the title of chief of the French state whereas his predecessors were presidents of the French Republic.

The journal published decrees granting French Indo-China customs autonomy and establishing a new ad valorem customs tariff.

The decree provided for liberal reciprocal customs favours between France and Indo-China and establishment of a quota system whereby Indo-China will export rice and corn to France while French heavy industries will enjoy favourable quotas in Indo-China.

Court Martial Needs

The high court-martial which Petaim established in September to try foodhoarders, speculators and traitors met recently for the first time at Gannat, presided over by General Duffieux.

It was believed the prosecuting attorney asked the court to sit in secret session. The court consists of two generals, both former members of the supreme war council, Duffieux and General Hure, Rear Admiral Cadard, Albert Vaudremer, a scientist of the Pasteur Institute and Jean Meaux of the French Legion.

There is no appeal against a death sentence by this court.

Storing Food For Nazi Victims

The Government's economic expert, Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, has been appointed director of a special organisation to accumulate supplies of food and other necessities to be rushed to the victims of aggression as soon as the Nazi yoke has been thrown off.

Germany, Austria, Poland, France, and Norway are among the areas included.

Whitehall will work with the United States Government in the preparation of plans, and it is intended to buy up surplus stocks of food,

NEW ZEALAND WAR WORK Munition Factories

WELLINGTON, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—The manufacture of munitions has become an important part of New Zealand's war work, said Mr. Sullivan, Minister of Supplies, to-day.

The production of munition covers Bren gun carriers, trench mortars, bombs (including high explosives), steel helmets and small arms.

Minesweepers are being built and an improved type will soon be produced.

After British experts have reported it is expected that Britain will establish programmes suitable for New Zealand to carry out.

Government is training munition workers.

Fraser Sends Message

WELLINGTON, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—"Our thoughts and prayers are with you always," cabled Mr. Peter Fraser, the New Zealand Premier, sending heartfelt congratulations to-day to Mr. Churchill on his "splendid address."

"Its inspiring and heartening character will strengthen the will and fire and spirit of all British peoples throughout the world in their determination to complete the task to which they have set their hand."

Mr. Fraser also cabled congratulations to General Wavell from the Government and people of New Zealand on the capture of Benghazi.

damaged several others that it is unlikely they returned to their base.

"On the night of February 9 Malta was raided by a considerable force of enemy planes. Damage was caused to private property and a few civilians were injured. Two Junkers fell near shot down.

"From all the operations under review, four British planes failed to return; but the pilot of one is safe."

Tripoli Raid

CAIRO, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—Attacks on Calato and Maritza in the island of Rhodes and a successful night raid on Tripoli are recorded in to-day's communiqué from the R.A.F. headquarters in the Middle East.

The communiqué says that on the night of February 8-9, aerodromes at Calato and Maritza were raided by bombers. Bombs were dropped on a number of aircraft dispersed on the landing ground at the former place, causing a heavy explosion and two large fires, believed to be enemy aircraft burning.

Aircraft of the Fleet Air Arm on the same night carried out a successful raid on Tripoli, bombs falling on the airplane station where a hangar was set on fire.

East Africa

In Italian East Africa, continued support was given to the army offensive. Keren was raided repeatedly. Much damage was caused to stores and motor transport.

At Asmara, South African fighters encountered a number of Italian planes, one enemy machine being shot down and several others badly damaged. Meanwhile R.A.F. bombers raided the town of Asmara.

When enemy aircraft attacked the occupied aerodrome at Agordat, one Italian plane was shot down by anti-aircraft fire.

In Albania

Further South African bombers effectively attacked Badana, Afmatu and the fort at Todenynge.

In Albania a small formation of R.A.F. fighters on patrol in the Kefeyre area yesterday intercepted a large number of enemy fighters. In the ensuing engagement, four Italian planes were shot down and several others were so badly damaged that it is unlikely that they returned to their base.

One British pilot had to abandon his craft, but made a successful parachute descent and returned unharmed to his squadron.

Two Downed At Malta

During the same night, a considerable force of enemy aircraft raided Malta. Damage was caused to private property and a few civilians were injured. Two German aircraft were shot down and others were probably damaged.

From all these extensive operations, four British aircraft failed to return but the pilot of one is safe.

prosecution of the war. These steps are being taken without any word of dissent from the Rumanian Government.

In the circumstances the position of the British Legation becomes impossible and Sir Reginald Hoare has been instructed to withdraw his mission and the consular officers under his control. That withdrawal will take place within the next few days.

Legation in London

London, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—The Rumanian Legation in London has received no instructions so far from Bucharest about withdrawing.

"Reuter" learns that the decision whether to withdraw naturally lies with the Rumanian Government and the General Antonescu instructs the Rumanian Legation to ask for passports there would be no difficulty about the departure of the Rumanian Mission.

Stocks From Seaweed

Professor J. B. Speakman soaked a piece of "seaweed satin" in petrol at Leeds University and then set it alight. When the flames died out, only the edges of the fabric had been charred.

At a meeting of the Bradford Society of Dyers and Colourers, Professor Speakman announced that after two years' research, a new textile fabric had been evolved equal to artificial silk, but made of seaweed instead of wood pulp.

A British firm will produce the new yarn for manufacture into stockings, underclothes, curtains.

No Aeroplane Souvenirs

IN England, nothing can be taken from a crashed German plane as a souvenir, but if a German airman gives something of his own the recipient can keep it.

This was decided at a north-western police court when William Philpott, a garage proprietor, was charged with failing to report the finding of a German flying helmet and removing it from where an enemy aircraft was brought down.

Mr. J. P. Moorley, prosecuting, said he believed it was the first case in which the rights of the Crown to receive booty or spoils of war had been disputed.

Philpott, he said, was seen with the helmet, after a German plane had been brought down, and he declared: "The pilot took off his helmet and gave it to me, saying, 'Souvenir.'"

Philpott expressed his willingness to hand over the helmet, which he regarded as a gift.

The chairman, Mr. R. Farmer, dismissing the charge, said the case failed because the helmet was a gift from the pilot.

SHANGHAI POLICE AGREEMENT SIGNED

Gambling, vice and other forms of lawlessness in the Shanghai Badlands have been a constant cause for concern to the Shanghai Municipal Council. Recently, after prolonged negotiation between the Council and the Greater Shanghai Municipal Government, an agreement was signed providing for the establishment of a joint police force in the territory to deal with the problem. Mr. W. J. Keswick, who is still Chairman of the Council, is shown above at the ceremony, which took place at the Kiangwan Civic Centre. His arm is still in a sling, after he was shot during the sensational ratepayers' meeting by a Japanese. In the picture also is Mr. E. T. Bryan, Municipal Advocate. At right, Mayor Chen preparing to sign the document. Below, Mr. Keswick, Mayor Chen and Mr. G. Godfrey Phillips, Secretary of the Council, toast the success of the new arrangement. TRADE UNION LEADER DIES

Mr. W. A. Appleton, the 80-year-old trade union leader, died at his home in Ashwell, Herts. Working his way up from the bottom in the lace and hosiery machinery trade, he became secretary of the General Federation of Trade Unions in 1907, a position which he held for 31 years.

When he retired he declined a £250 a year pension, on the grounds that he wanted to leave the position "with dignity and freedom." The Federation placed on record that he had brought to bear on his duties "qualities of mind and heart that have endeared him to all."

FOR THE 1 MAN IN 7 WHO SHAVES EVERY DAY

A Special Shave Cream—it's Not a Soap, Needs No Brush!

Daily shaving leaves many men's faces raw and sensitive. Yet, because of his business and social status, one out of every 7 men must shave every day.

To meet this condition, Williams has now developed GLIDER—a special cream for daily shavers. With no soap base, it's a complete departure from ordinary shave creams. No brush. No lather. No sticky or greasy.

A superabundance of moisture is contained in this rich cream. It won't dry on your face. Applied with the fingers, it quickly softens each whisker. A protective layer is formed over which your razor glides. Off comes each hair at the base without scraping. Like a cold cream, Glider helps keep your skin smooth all day. Glider is the result of nearly 100 years' experience in making fine shaving preparations.

The British Navy's Victories of Peace

by "TAFFRAIL"

Long Record of Civilian Protection and Merciful Aid Fighting Slavery, Piracy, Famine and Plague

The Royal Navy of Britain has a tremendous task to-day. It fights against the ships, the submarines and the air forces of Germany and Italy, and attacks their military bases. It enforces a rigid blockade of those countries. It keeps open and defends the sea-roads by which supplies reach Britain. And it alone makes possible communication between Latin America and the British Isles.

In this war, the Royal Navy has once again proved the tremendous weight of a British sea-power in battle and in economic war.

But the Royal Navy has a wider field of activity, and one that affects the peace and progress of all lands.

Every day, aboard the ships of the British Navy, the chaplain reads a prayer written in the seventeenth century.

That prayer describes the Navy as: "A safeguard . . . a security for such as pass on the seas on their lawful occasions."

This the Royal Navy is indeed. Its work for the security of the seas never ceases. Gunboats and sloops are always in the Red Sea and Persian Gulf to prevent traffic in slaves, and the running of arms and ammunition. Little white gunboats far inland up the rivers in China have frequently been called upon to protect lives and property, to rescue and succour the victims of floods, and to assist relief work during epidemics.

An incident that occurred some years ago in China comes to my mind. Seamen and marines had to be landed at an up-river port, and for hours an armed guard of steel-helmeted men stood shoulder to shoulder facing a frenzied mob that shrieked at them and bombarded them with missiles.

If a single man had lost his temper and struck out there would have been a

ghastly outbreak of violence. The situation was saved by the steadiness and good humour of the men. They were wonderful. They smiled at the mob. They even shared their rations with the children.

The Navy has a long record of relief work in hurricanes, earthquakes, and other disasters. It has frequently protected civilians during revolutions and riots. It has, in innumerable instances, given aid to ships in distress ships of all nations.

Before the war, the cruisers "Exeter" and "Ajax", which afterwards became famous in the battle of the River Plate, took an active part in relief work after an earthquake in Chile. They transported many refugees, and carried in their aircraft the vaccines necessary to save life.

Every year, normally, one of His Majesty's ships visits the lonely island of Tristan da Cunha, in the South Atlantic, to land stores and supplies for the inhabitants. This visit is one of the island's few links with the outer world.

During the Civil War in Spain, British men-of-war, large and small, were converted into floating hostels for hundreds of refugees. Officers, including Commanders, gave up their cabins to women and children. Decks were screened off to provide living quarters. Meals were served in relays with seamen acting as cooks and waiters.

Bluejackets nursed the babies of tired mothers, entertained the older children on improvised swings and merry-go-rounds, and gave them sweets and chocolates from the canteen.

An officer in a destroyer showed his inventive genius by manufacturing babies' feeding bottles out of soda-water bottles. This ship missed, by a matter of minutes, having her complement increased by one. The baby was born ashore.

In some ships, officers and men camped out as best they could for weeks at a time to provide the refugees with shelter. This meant discomfort, to say the least of it, particularly in the destroyers, where space is very cramped. But the sailors didn't care. It was their job. The Navy, proud to do what it could, and adaptable as ever, entered thoroughly into the spirit of the thing, and seems somehow to have enjoyed itself.

I have read many letters of gratitude addressed to the British Admiralty by foreign Governments. I have read, too, many touching tributes from private people of various nationalities who have been helped. A phrase that occurs very frequently is: "I shall be grateful to the British Navy all my life."

One man wrote: "I was truly proud of the quiet efficiency, and still more of the kindly spirit, with which the task of evacuating us was carried out . . . I could only marvel at the unfailing kindness and consideration of each and every sailor to all the refugees, especially to the old, the feeble, and the children. It was simply wonderful."

An old Irish lady, rescued from a dangerous situation, and given the captain's cabin in a destroyer, wrote: "May God and Our Lady bless and protect the British Navy for evermore."

Another grateful person wrote that the sailors themselves had not been ashore for weeks and were themselves short of food; but went shorter still so that the rescued could be fed.

Throughout its long history, the Royal Navy of Britain has been a safeguard for those in distress or affliction.

It is clear proof of the power and adaptability of the British Navy that it can turn from these tasks of peace to the stern duties of a great war, and perform them with all the vigour and courage of a fighting force.

To-day the British Navy is in battle or on the watch on all the seas of the world. It is a vital element in Britain's plan for victory. But it should be remembered that, when there is no war job to be done, the Royal Navy is still busy, every day, in the interests of humanity and the safety of the seas.

LEND & LEASE BILL

THE approval of the Lend and Lease Bill by the House of Representatives is a triumph for the Roosevelt Administration, not only politically, but in its accurate estimate of the present-day temper of American public opinion. Determined, but unavailing was the Republican opposition to the main features of the measure, but the House's approval was assured when amendment after amendment was defeated. The Bill has yet to obtain the acquiescence of the Senate, where a closer vote is likely, but its final approval by Congress is now virtually assured.

The gesture is symbolic of the new and closer relations obtaining between Britain and the United States; it gives practical expression to a real and deep sympathy for the cause of the British Empire against the machinations of the Axis Powers which seek to destroy all those institutions which are held so dear by Americans.

The moral effect of this willingness by the United States to extend all aid possible will be tremendous and beneficial to Britain, where millions of souls calmly await the full might of the German war machine. The knowledge that a large proportion of the vast resources of the U.S. are to be made available to Britain will not only provide a wonderful stimulus to that nation which now has her back to the wall, but a fearsome and discouraging obstacle to Nazi aspirations.

A striking feature of the debates and committee hearings in Washington on the Lend and Lease measure has been the highly intelligent and constructive arguments advanced by both sides. There are sound, logical grounds for some of the apprehensions advanced by the opposition.
The truth is that the United States is taking a most important, and virtually irrevocable step; its repercussions are destined to be felt throughout the world. It places the United States as the officially acknowledge enemy of the Axis; it is a challenge to them which, perhaps, they will find themselves unable to ignore. The Bill may well shape the future history of the entire world; its implications are comprehensive to a degree which must impress Japan as much as they will Germany and Italy. When the measure becomes law, the world generally will know that, so far as the United States is concerned, the die has been cast. The thought is both exhilarating and sobering.

Hitler and his gang will curse the day
they first made use of the secret weapon
that has helped them so far on their evil path

When OUR Fifth Column Is In Action

It is possible that Hitler regarded his Fifth Column as being his most important secret weapon. But, like most weapons, it can be countered, and even in the end turned into a stronger weapon against the original user.

The Nazis to-day occupy several countries, but they have definitely not conquered them.
Daily, despite an extreme censorship of all news within these countries of the "New Order," come underground accounts of sabotage and silent, secret warfare against the hated invaders whose one aim appears to be to exploit ruthlessly and without mercy the human and material resources of the occupied territories.

Britain began this war with many disadvantages, the chief one being that Hitler's plans had been crowned with success for six years.
To-day we now have the signal advantage that in not one single European country is the Nazi invader even tolerated. He is loathed and hated—hated more and more as day succeeds day. His exploitation of Europe, his plundering of occupied territories, and, most of all, his forcible creation of millions of labour-slaves is gradually bringing great populations to such a state that they may, at any moment, become so embittered that they will turn savagely on their oppressors, let the cost be what it may.

It is true that for a time the Germans have been able to enjoy the material benefits of occupation. Vast quantities of foodstuffs and stores have been despatched to Germany to provide the doped population with the illusion of victory. But this plunder cannot go on for ever, and, at the same time, to try to keep order in the ravaged territories large arms are not tired, nor have their minds lost any keenness.

At the head of those who lead the regeneration of the Czechs will undoubtedly be handsome Jan Masaryk, son of the famous founder of Czechoslovakia.
His inspired broadcasts ring like a clarion call across the sea to his countrymen; and nobody hearing him can doubt but that the efforts of this dynamical man in the cause of the Czechs do not stop at mere words over the air.

In connection with Czechoslovakia it is a fact of interest and significance that the Nazis are now known to be transferring their war plants from the dangerous west—where the R.A.F. makes free play—to the safer east in the countryside of Bohemia. One day wholesale Czech sabotage—a symptom already much in evidence—may destroy most of those war plants which have survived the R.A.F.

When the time comes for the British offensive to start there is not the slightest chance that the Germans will be able to divert more than a proportion of their forces to meet it. Rather they may have to reduce their present available forces to meet it.
Rather they may have to reduce their present available forces to increase the garrisons in occupied territories where risings are likely to break out.

The elaborate underground network of conspiracy, already a living thing in workshops and homes of Czechoslovakia, will by that time have a vital counterpart elsewhere.

In Holland there is plenty of evidence that the democratic and freedom-loving population will rise in vengeance against the oppressor. In Belgium it is the same. The Danes have found for themselves a newly-created national spirit. The Norwegians are the same, and could deal deadly blows at the Germans.

Deadly Blows

Few who know the French can doubt that in time they must arise from their apathetic stupor and turn on their hereditary enemy.

But it will be the Poles—the nation which has never known a greater effort of all to smash, break and hurl to destruction the race who have carried out the most horrible of brutal deeds. They have suffered a worse savagery than any of the others.

Attila and his Huns could not have surpassed the brutalities done to the people of Poland.

What a Nemesis is coming to but that is not preventing a great number of patriots on the Continent hearing what Hitler least wants them to hear.

The Nazi chiefs are as well aware as the British Government that every body of "Free" nationals organised in Britain has its own army of agents at work among its oppressed fellow countrymen, working relentlessly underground to prepare their minds for the time when a day arrives which will not be "Der Tag" for the Germans.

There is one thing we can learn from Hitler's strategy during the war, and from which we can draw a vital conclusion.
If the Nazis are to be defeated it will not be only by war on land, sea and air or by the blockade; the spontaneous uprising and the wielding of the revolutionary weapon against the Nazis will cause their whole structure to disintegrate.

It will be then that the leaders of the Third Reich will understand the full meaning of the words "Fifth Column." They will recover their spirits as they first made use of this burning at white heat. Their secret weapon.

By Arthur Armstrong

By HANNEN SWAFFER

THEY wandered over the scarred war-fields. The grass was black with powder and with fire that had long gone out.

Things that had been men were lying everywhere, and where once harvests had ripened in the sun-shine was blood and wreckage.

Overhead, smoke gathered into a pall, and the groans and curses of the dying echoed where larks were wont to sing of summer.

"This is the end of all things," said one in an agony of hopelessness, "all that we strove for and dreamed of, all that God meant to us, all that on which we built up our hopes of Heaven.
The Devil, indeed, has won."

But his friend, even amid the horror, was smiling. He had seen, bursting among the chaos, the petals of a flower—the promise of another spring-time.
"God's work is still going on," he said, "as it is with the stricken earth, so 'tis with the souls of men!"

A MAN, riding through a swollen stream, came to a hole in the river bed so deep that the water nearly covered his saddle.

Just then, seeing near him a fine, strapping horse—an animal hands higher than his own—he started to change mounts.

But an old man on the bank knew all about such things. "Never swap horses while crossing the stream," he thundered.

"That's all very well," replied the man in trouble, "but I've just discovered that I'm riding a donkey!"

A LOT of lambs were defending themselves against many more wolves. So they dressed themselves in wolves' clothing and looked very fierce.

"Now the wolves will be frightened, and behave like lambs," they said.

But the wolves didn't. They went on eating lambs like anything, and when you make war on wolves you must be wolves yourselves.

THE War Lord dreamed. In the Land of Shadows the Prince of Punishment meted justice out.

"They are your dead," he said,
"count them!"

Bodies stretched for miles, bodies that once were strong men in their prime, shapes that, only days before, had leapt with the joyousness of youth, the figures of women yesterday glad in their motherhood, and the lifeless shells that had shone only with an infant's half-born smile.

So, to his long task, the War Lord bent. "You are one out!" thundered the tyrant who ruled there, when the War Lord had reckoned up the toll.

And again the War Lord reckoned, until the hundreds were thousands and the thousands millions.

"You are still one out!" mocked the tormentor. "You haven't counted yourself!"

Those who first take up the sword point it at their own hearts.

COARSE men, with race-glasses, filled two hundred and seventy-five motor-cars, and burned eleven hundred gallons of petrol—which the nation wanted—on the journey to the race-course.

"As they rode, they passed big bills which implored economy.

They smiled.
"You can't say we're using petrol for pleasure," remarked one, emphasising the last word with a grin.
Then he went on the course and shouted: "Three to one the field!"

War or no war, you must keep up the breed of horses.

A COOK PHEASANT was pluming his feathers as, before a hen, he strutted in the spring sunshine. There were quite a lot of other pheasants about—he had more rivals than usual this year.

Men don't seem to have done so much shooting last winter," he said.
Every bullet doesn't hit YOU.

HE had finished early two rounds of golf, and had nothing to do.
"I may as well go and register," he thought.

But, to his surprise, the doctors rejected him. A varicose vein, or something, in his leg, would not let him march, they said. Besides, he was an inch short.

And so there was nothing in the war that he could do to help his country.

Wondering, he stopped before a shop.

In the window, surrounded by the sort of engravings which the middle classes call "Art," was a picture of a very little man wearing a uniform covered with medals, but—wonderful to relate—possessing only one arm and one eye.

It was Nelson.

"He seems to have been a pretty useful cripple," said the rejected man, as he went back to do acrobatic dances at a bottle party.

Even if you lose a toe you can win a battle.

MEMBERS of Parliament wanted to know things, so they asked lots of questions.

"Well—" said a Minister. "I'll inquire into it."

Members wanted to know other things, and they asked more questions.

"Well—" said the Minister. "Well
—I'll make inquiries."

Agreed To Alter Classification Ministry Official Gaoled For Bribe

AN official of the Ministry of Labour and National Service was recently sentenced to the maximum of four months' hard labour and fined £50 at Stratford, E., for accepting a £25 bribe. He was Maurice Louis Miel, of Wentworth Gardens, Palmers Green, employed at Walthamstow Labour Exchange.

When he had been found guilty the police revealed that he was sentenced to a month's imprisonment at Bristol in 1927 for receiving stolen property, and in January, 1935, received six concurrent sentences of 18 months' imprisonment for fraudulent conversion.

Investigation

Alderman F. H. Dane, a magistrate, How can a man with such a record get a responsible position with the Ministry?

Mr H. A. K. Morgan (prosecuting) said Miel went to them with excellent references, but these would now be investigated.

Miel was employed in checking classifications of persons due to serve under the Military Service Act. He received £25 for altering the trade classification of Harold Green, managing director of a firm making gowns, to ensure that he would be in the list of reserved occupations. Miel, on being assured that Green was not a Jew, said: "I am fed up with twisting Jews, trying to get out of military service, but as Gentile, I will do what I can for you. I don't see why Jews should be the only ones to evade military service."

£50 And Clothes

Green asked, "How much is this going to cost?" and Miel replied, "£50."

Green said he could not pay it, and Miel replied: "Pay me £25 now, £25 later, and supply me with clothes for myself, my wife and daughter at wholesale prices for the duration of the war."

Counsel said Green did not wish to evade military service, but a further appointment was made. Green went to the police, and from then on acted on their instructions.

S. AMERICA British Mission Leaves After Great Success

BOGOTA, Colombia, Feb. 10 (Reuters).—Members of the British Trade Mission to South America are leaving here to-morrow after a most successful five-day visit. There have been unrestrained demonstrations of sympathy for the cause of the British Empire.

Oil And Royal Navy Subdue Italians

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 10 (Reuters).—The British Fleet is the foremost cause of the apparent paralysis of Italy, says the naval correspondent of the Swedish paper, "Stockholm Tidningen."

It is not known, he declares, whether the Italian Fleet and Air Force have taken measures to deal with attacks like that on Genoa. One impression of the paralysis, gained during the last three months, is probably a shortage of fuel, but the foremost is the presence of the British Fleet.

Poor Woman's Unknown £20,000 In Tin Box

"A MOST romantic story"—in the words of the judge—of treasure in a tin box was told in the Chancery Division recently. Securities of the value of £20,000, it was stated, were found in a tin box in the home of a woman who was living in poverty and was about to be taken to a poor-house.

Before the Court was a summons taken out by Westminster Bank Limited, the administrators of Nathan William Perrott, Caroline Perrott and Caroline Elizabeth Barker.

Granddaughter's Claim
The respondents were Mrs. Caroline Kate Newman, of Theberton.

HOW TO RALLY AFTER ILLNESS

It's an uphill business getting your strength back after serious illness or operation. There's only one thing that can help you—nourishment, plenty of it. But your stomach is as weak as your legs and you hate the thought and sight of food.

Doctors save the situation time and again by giving the convalescent patient Horlicks. It is food in a form which places no strain on the exhausted digestion—and its pleasant flavour restores the faded appetite. Horlicks is a complete balanced food, containing all the elements needed for filling out the wasted body with healthy flesh and repairing tattered nerves.

Thousands of people owe their quick recovery to the abundant vitality and energy that Horlicks has poured into their veins. Get Horlicks from your store to-day. Always keep a supply in the house.

Mr Menzies Over War Area

CAIRO, Feb. 10 (Reuters).—Mr R. G. Menzies, the Australian Federal Premier, has returned from a 36-hour visit to the Bardia area, in which he was accompanied by General Sir Thomas Blamey, Commanding the Australian forces overseas.

The party travelled in an R.A.F. plane and flew low over the battle zone, enabling Mr Menzies to follow the whole story of the brilliant campaign.

Mr Menzies' visit was marked by an atmosphere of friendliness and good cheer.

50 PLANES BOMB KUNMING

—Little Damage
SPECIAL TO THE TELEGRAPH
KUNMING, Feb. 10 (Central News).—Fifty Japanese naval planes flying in relays raided Kunming yesterday.

Harassed by heavy Chinese anti-aircraft fire, the raiders were forced to operate at such a height as to make accurate bombing impossible. Most of the bombs missed their objectives, and the damage done was inconsequential.

BELATED REPLY TO A PROTEST

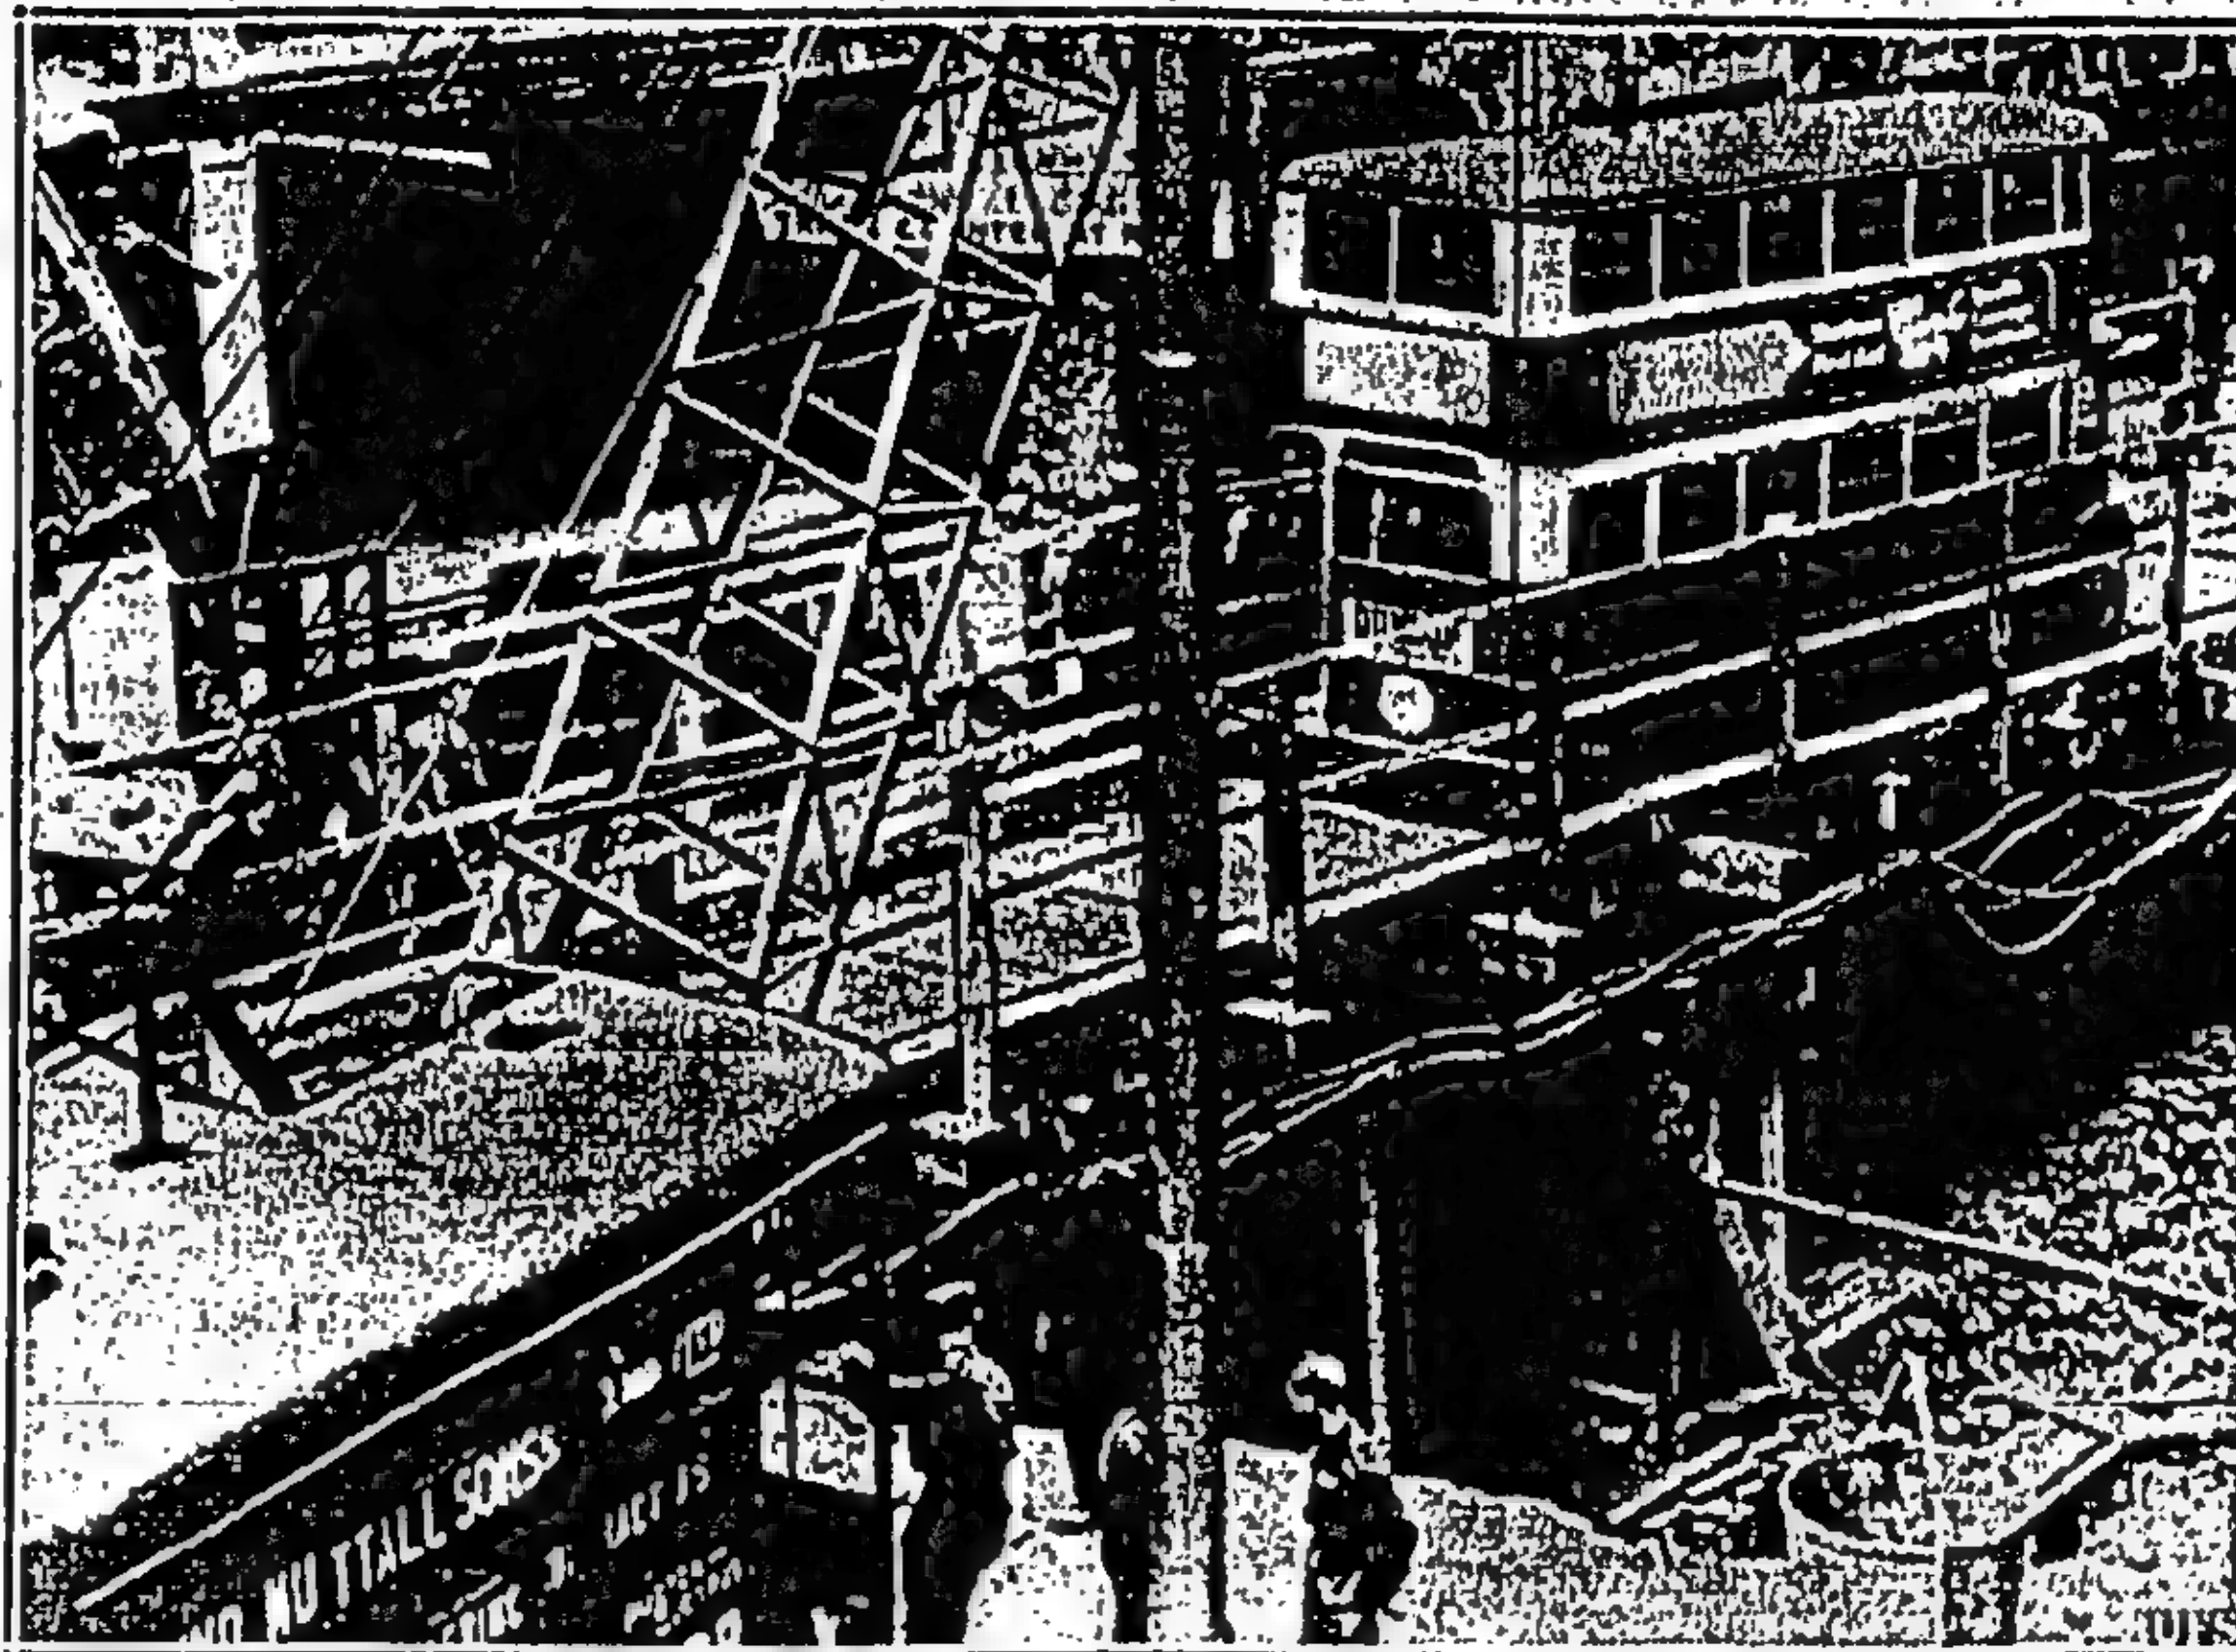

U.S. Mission Said Bombed
WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 (Reuters).—In reply to the United States protest against the bombing of an American mission in Anglo-Egyptian Sudan last August, the Italian Government has denied that the attack was made by Italian planes.

It declares that according to a report received from the Italian East African High Command, "the report of the bombardment of the mission as broadcast by the British is unfounded, so far as we are concerned."

Americans Leave Shanghai

CHUNGKING, Feb. 11 (Central News).—About 100 American missionaries and more than ten family members of American professors of the St. John's University left Shanghai yesterday aboard a Presidential liner to return to America in accordance with the U.S. Government's advice to evacuate.

FANCHENG, Feb. 10 (Central News).—A Japanese plane was brought down by Chinese anti-aircraft guns at Wanchuanlin, north of Chungking in south Hunan, on February 1.

BRITISH SPIRIT—Recently this London street was a normal thoroughfare, without any hole or bridge. Then Hitler's airmen let loose a bomb and put a crater there. Royal Engineers immediately built this bridge and traffic moves as usual.

Greek Islander Asked R.A.F. Men "Are Youse Guys English?"

THREE weary men—the crew of an R.A.F. bomber reported "missing, feared killed," after attacking an Albanian port—returned after two days to their station in Greece with an extraordinary story to tell.

Their plane was hit and severely damaged during the raid, but, although thrown on its back by the explosion, it would still fly.

This is what the squadron-leader had to say about their subsequent adventures. "We flew for nearly two hours and then spotted a tiny island. We found only one place to attempt a landing—a strip of beach about 20 yards wide.

Crew Stayed

"I gave the chance of jumping to the crew, but they preferred to stand by me. We put the aircraft down safely, although the wheels would not come down and we made a belly landing.

"Passants rushed away screaming. We put our hands up and yelled, 'Ingles! Ingles!'

"A look of wonderment spread over one man's face and he replied with a definite American accent, 'Are youse guys English?'

After borrowing the islanders' only car, soon after destroyed by a bomb, the R.A.F. men sailed by night in a fishing boat to the mainland.

Rough weather forced them into a mainland port after 20 hours at sea.

He Made A Speech

"Here we had a grand reception," said the squadron leader. "All of us were carried shoulder high round the village, being kissed by men, women and children alike.

"Bouquets showered on us, we were given bottles of local wine and led by the mayor and corporation to the town hall.

"I had to make a speech, but as it was in English, I do not imagine much of it got over. The most popular part was when I said 'Mussolini' in grim tones and made a sign. That fairly brought the house down."

Loaded with gifts, the R.A.F. men were given a car and set off on the mountain trail. They finished the journey back to their station by walking, car and train.

MONEY FOR GLIDERS

WITH a view to promoting popular air-mindedness and as a step towards training more air pilots, a movement has been launched by the China branch of the International Peace Campaign among its two million members to raise funds for a squadron of gliders. The sum of $100,000 has already been collected, states a message from Chungking.

Mrs Sheriff Is Surprised

MRS CHRISTINE STELLA WAY, of Garthmyl Hall, Garthmyl, Montgomeryshire, nominated at the Law Courts for the office of sheriff of her county, said, "I hope not."

Mr Justice Singleton selected her name during the ceremony of nominating new sheriffs for England and Wales.

The first woman sheriff, Mrs. Forter Welch, was elected for the county borough of Southampton in November 1920.

SOIL FROM SIX COUNTRIES

Soil from each of the six counties of Northern Ireland was sprinkled over the grave at the funeral of Lord Craigavon in Belfast. It was taken from a bowl used for the same purpose at the funeral of Lord Carson.

'Republic' Eliminated From Petain's State

Marshal Petain has eliminated the word "republic" from official documents, the official Gazette having appeared with the new title: "Journal Officiel of the French State," instead "of the French Republic," says United Press.

Petaim also assumed the title of chief of the French state whereas his predecessors were presidents of the French Republic.

The Journal published decrees granting French Indo-China customs autonomy and establishing a new ad valorem customs tariff.

The decree provided for liberal reciprocal customs favours between France and Indo-China and establishment of a quota system whereby Indo-China will export rice and corn to France while French heavy industries will enjoy favourable quotas in Indo-China.

Court Martial Needs

The high court-martial which Petaim established in September to try foodhoarders, speculators and traitors met recently for the first time at Gannat, presided over by General Duffieux.

It was believed the prosecuting attorney asked the court to sit in secret session. The court consists of two generals, both former members of the supreme war council, Duffieux and General Hure, Rear Admiral Cadard, Albert Vaudremer, a scientist of the Pasteur Institute and Jean Meaux of the French Legion.

There is no appeal against a death sentence by this court.

NEW ZEALAND WAR WORK

Munition Factories

WELLINGTON, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—The manufacture of munitions has become an important part of New Zealand's war work, said Mr. Sullivan, Minister of Supplies, to-day.

The production of munition covers Bren gun carriers, trench mortars, bombs (including high explosives), steel helmets and small arms.

Minesweepers are being built and an improved type will soon be produced.

After British experts have reported, it is expected that Britain will establish programmes suitable for New Zealand to carry out.

Government is training munition workers.

Fraser Sends Message

WELLINGTON, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—Our thoughts and prayers are with you always, said Mr. Peter Fraser, the New Zealand Premier, sending heartfelt congratulations to-day to Mr. Churchill on his "splendid address."

"Its inspiring and heartening character will strengthen the will and fire and spirit of all British people throughout the world in their determination to complete the task to which they have set their hand," said Mr. Fraser.

Mr. Fraser also cabled congratulations to General Wavell from the Government and people of New Zealand on the capture of Benghazi.

damaged several others that it is unlikely they returned to their base.

"On the night of February 9-9 Malta was raided by a considerable force of enemy planes. Damage was caused to private property and a few civilians were injured. Two Junkers 88s were shot down.

"From all the operations under review, four British planes failed to return, but the pilot of one is safe."

Tripoli Raid

CAIRO, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—Attacks on Calais and Malta in the island of Rhodes and a successful night raid on Tripoli are recorded in to-day's communiqué from the R.A.F. headquarters in the Middle East.

The communiqué says that on the night of February 8-9, aerodromes at Calais and Malta were raided by bombers. Bombs were dropped on a number of aircraft dispersed on the landing ground at the former place, causing a heavy explosion and two large fires, believed to be enemy aircraft burning.

Aircraft of the Fleet Air Arm on the same night carried out a successful raid on Tripoli, bombs falling on the seaplane station where a hangar was set on fire.

East Africa

In Italian East Africa, continued support was given to the army offensive. Keren was raided repeatedly. Much damage was caused to stores and motor transport.

At Asmara, South African fighters encountered a number of Italian planes, one enemy machine being shot down and several others badly damaged. Meanwhile, R.A.F. bombers destroyed the town of Asmara.

When enemy aircraft attacked the occupied aerodrome at Agordat, an Italian plane was shot down by anti-aircraft fire.

In Albania

Further South African bombers effectively attacked Badana, Afrimadu and the fort at Todeneng.

In Albania a small formation of R.A.F. fighters on patrol in the Kefyre area yesterday intercepted a large number of enemy fighters. In the ensuing engagement, four Italian planes were shot down and several others were so badly damaged that it is unlikely that they returned to their base.

One British pilot had to abandon his craft, but made a successful parachute descent and returned unharmed to his squadron.

Two Downed At Malta

During the same night, a considerable force of enemy aircraft raided Malta. Damage was caused to private property and a few civilians were injured. Two German aircraft were shot down and others were probably damaged.

From all these extensive operations four British aircraft failed to return but the pilot of one is safe.

prosecution of the war. These steps are being taken without any word of dissent from the Rumanian Government.

In the circumstances the position of the British Legation becomes impossible and Sir Reginald Hoare has been instructed to withdraw his mission and the consular officers under his control. That withdrawal will take place within the next few days.

Legation in London

London, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—The Rumanian Legation in London has received no instructions so far from Bucharest about withdrawing. "Reuter" learns that the decision whether to withdraw naturally lies with the Rumanian Government and if General Antonescu instructs the Charge d'Affaires to ask for passports there would be no difficulty about the departure of the Rumanian Mission.

FROZEN ASSETS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—Foreign assets valued at $4,300,000,000 are "frozen" in the United States, according to a Treasury estimate.

These assets belong to countries which are completely or partially occupied by Germany with the exception of $20,000,000 belonging to Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia, which are now incorporated into the Soviet Union.

Figures for other countries are: France, $1,503,000,000; Netherlands, $1,010,000,000; Denmark, $92,000,000; Norway, $175,000,000; Belgium, $760,000,000; Luxembourg, $48,000,000 and Rumania $53,000,000.

Cost of Living In Britain

LONDON, Feb. 10 (British Wire-tele).—The cost of living index figure in Britain, according to the Ministry of Labour figures, shows a rise of 12 per cent. during last year.

At the beginning of 1940, the index figure was 74 per cent. above that for July, 1914, as compared with 55 per cent. immediately before the outbreak of war in the previous September.

By March 1, the figure had risen to 79 and on July 1 had again risen sharply to 87. It declined to 85 on August 1 but by January 1 this year, it had risen to 90.

Notice To Mariners

A Harbour Department notice to mariners states that the signal mast at Mount Faber, Keppel Harbour, Singapore, will be struck. The Time Ball Mast may also be struck.

Vessels navigating, or lying at anchor in the examination area of the western entrance of Sourabaya in the Netherlands East Indies, are warned to keep a sharp look-out for floating mines.

Should mines be sighted, a report is to be made to the pilot light vessel or examination vessel.

EARLY CLIMAX IN THE BALKANS EXPECTED BY LONDON

Special to the "Telegraph"

LONDON, FEB. 10 (UP).—BRITAIN'S RUPTURE IN DIPLO-MATIC RELATIONS WITH RUMANIA CAME IMMEDIATELY AFTER MR CHURCHILL'S STRONG WARNING TO BULGARIA, AND POINTS TO AN EARLY CLIMAX OF THE SITUATION IN THE BALKANS.

BALKAN DIPLOMATS SAY THEY WOULD NOT BE SURPRISED IF RUMANIA SOON FINDS HERSELF AT WAR WITH BRITAIN AND THAT BULGARIA, IF SHE CONNIVES WITH GERMANY, MAY ALSO DISCOVER HERSELF IN THAT POSITION.

These observers doubted whether the British bombing of Rumanian oilfields was likely to be made without a declaration of war. There are no signs that that is imminent, although the possibility cannot be ruled out in view of the British statement that Rumania is being used by Germany as a base for the furtherance of her military plans.

BRITISH PLANES BOMB TRIPOLI

Special to the "Telegraph"

CAIRO, Feb. 10 (UP).—Planes from the Fleet Air Arm

8-9. On the same night, the R.A.F. bombed and machine-gunned the aerodrome at Calato. The R.A.F., supporting the army's offensive in Italian East Africa, repeatedly raided Keren and caused much damage to depots and motor transports.

out an offensive sweep over Dunkirk and Boulogne to-day.
Bombs were dropped on the docks at Dunkirk.

According to an early report,
two enemy fighters were destroyed by one British squadron.

Fighter Missing
LONDON, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—Only one British fighter is missing from the aircraft which participated in the offensive sweeps over northern France to-day.

This is revealed by an Air Ministry communiqué dealing with the operations.

German Version BERLIN, Feb. 10 (UP).—The official news agency announced at noon to-day that a single British bomber convoyed by fighters attempted to fly in over the Channel coast but the planes were "met by a crushing defence," in which German fighters shot down one British plane.

Japan Faces Enormous Supplementary Budget

Special to the "Telegraph"

TOKYO, Feb. 11 (Domei).—A subsidy of 8,000,000 Yen to the National Service Association was included in the 1,311-849,000 Yen general account supplementary budget presented by the Government to the Diet on Monday.

A sum of 8,079,000 Yen is provided for adding to the Foreign Ministry's expenditure in the China Affair while another 1,120,000 Yen is set aside for financing diplomatic facilities in meeting the new international situation.

The Home Ministry secures 1,300-000 Yen for facilitating occupational changes among the people and 1,650,000 Yen as provisional family allowances to its personnel.

The Finance Ministry earmarks
2,210,000 Yen to subsidize the North and Central China Development Companies, while the War Ministry earmarks 23,420,000 Yen for improving equipment, 71,320,000 Yen for increasing air and air defence services.

Meanwhile, reports of the establishment of a big German military base at Dobrudja in Bulgaria including substantial ammunition stores, is believed to have been an important factor in prompting Mr Churchill's broadcast warning to Bulgaria.

The activity of many German officers and airmen in civilian dress at the Bulgarian airfields is also known to have been in the mind of the Premier.

German Denial

BERLIN, Feb. 10 (UP).—In regard to Mr Churchill's broadcast, informed German circles denied "100 per cent"
his statement that German troops were already in Bulgaria. They described his claims of German losses in air raids over Malta as "about 40 per cent, exaggeration of the actual facts."

They declared that the speech in German opinion was marked (1) by bombers and exaggeration of British successes thus far and (2) by nervousness. They declared: "It is obvious that the speech was intended to influence the Balkan States as much as the United States Congress."

They ridiculed Mr Churchill's statement that a German expeditionary force for Africa was "waiting at Genoa."

500,000 Troops In Readiness LONDON, Feb. 10 (UP).—Usually reliable sources place the number of German soldiers in Rumania, and those assembled near the Slovakian border ready to enter Rumania at between 400,000 and 500,000.

An official source charged that "Germany's high command is building up in Rumania all the elements for an expeditionary force and has concentrated them at various strategical points with large quantities of munitions, oil and fuel."

The severing of diplomatic relations with Rumania was due to the fact that Rumania is becoming a German military base.

It is said that Sir Reginald Hoare, the British Ambassador, will be leaving for London within a few days.

NEW JAPANESE PRECAUTIONS Protecting Ships

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

TOKYO, Feb. 11 (Domei).—Moving to meet the threat of surface and undersea commerce raiders, the Government yesterday introduced into the Diet a Bill for the protection of merchant vessels, under which the Navy will be accorded wide powers for directing shipping operations in case of war, or in a situation in which a conflict between third-party Powers threatens the security of Japanese sea lanes.

The Navy will be authorized to set courses for merchant shipping, designate the ports of call, provide escorts or order formation of convoys.

Commenting on the Bill, Commissioner Noriyo Sato of the Navy Ministry recalled the efficiency of the Japanese Navy's protection of Allied shipping in the Mediterranean during the World War. The effec-cy of the convoy system was demonstrated when the losses sustained by submarine attack during 1917 were only 0.8 per cent, although the quantity of goods transported was reduced by 25 per cent as a result of the delay and general slowness of the convoy system.

New Vichy Cabinet
LONDON, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—A complete re-shuffle of the Vichy Cabinet will not take place before the middle of the week, according to well-informed circles in Vichy, says a despatch from that centre to the official German news agency.

Inauguration At Lyons VICHY, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—The new French consultative body, the National Council, will, according to the "Nouvelles de Lyon," meet for its inaugural session at Lyons but will later continue its work at Vichy, where it will be in closer touch with the different ministries.

The newspaper understands that at the first meeting, the Council will agree on the list of names to be submitted to the head of the State with a view to the establishment of a bureau for assembly.

Stabilisation Fund
NEW YORK, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—

million stabilisation fund, according to the Washington correspondent of the Dow Jones agency.

nounced destination at noon yester-

Amazing Story Of Battle Of Benghazi Told By Gen. Bergonzoli

By Richard MacMillan

SOLLUCH, NEAR TRI-POLITAN FRONTIER,
Feb. 10 (UP).—General
Bergonzoli told me to-night the story of the battle of Benghazi in which he was captured with between 29,000 and 30,000 men after the greatest tank battle in the desert offensive.

What made the battle especially dramatic was the hordes of women and children refugees who were unwilling spectators to the carnage of their Italian menfolk who were mown down by British guns before their horrified eyes.

General Bergonzoli was surprised when the British armoured brigades appeared on his line of retreat towards Tripoli, as the Italian force had been given no indication that British armoured units were near.

The Italians never believed that the British were capable of a journey from the interior in time to intercept them.

The Italians allowed a group of refugees to leave Benghazi at the last minute, mainly children of the families of officers and soldiers to join in the routed enemy columns which comprised several groups of tanks ahead of one group on the left flank, and another on the right between the fleeing columns and the sea.

The infantry went in several columns, one of which comprised 15,000 men with which General Ber-gonzoli and women and children were a part.

Astonishing Scenes
According to the General, the women and children became panic-stricken and he sought to join them, but as the light developed fiercely, the women and children fled from the battlefield which was strewn with perambulators, push carts, toys, household goods and chattels.

The meeting with General Ber-gonzoli occurred after an eventful day in Benghazi. I marched with the British Imperial troops and entered the town after the emirs were sent out to the British lines to declare Benghazi an open city. We marched in after spending the night at Benina aerodrome which looked

R. O. Officer's Suspicion Leads To New Territories Round Up

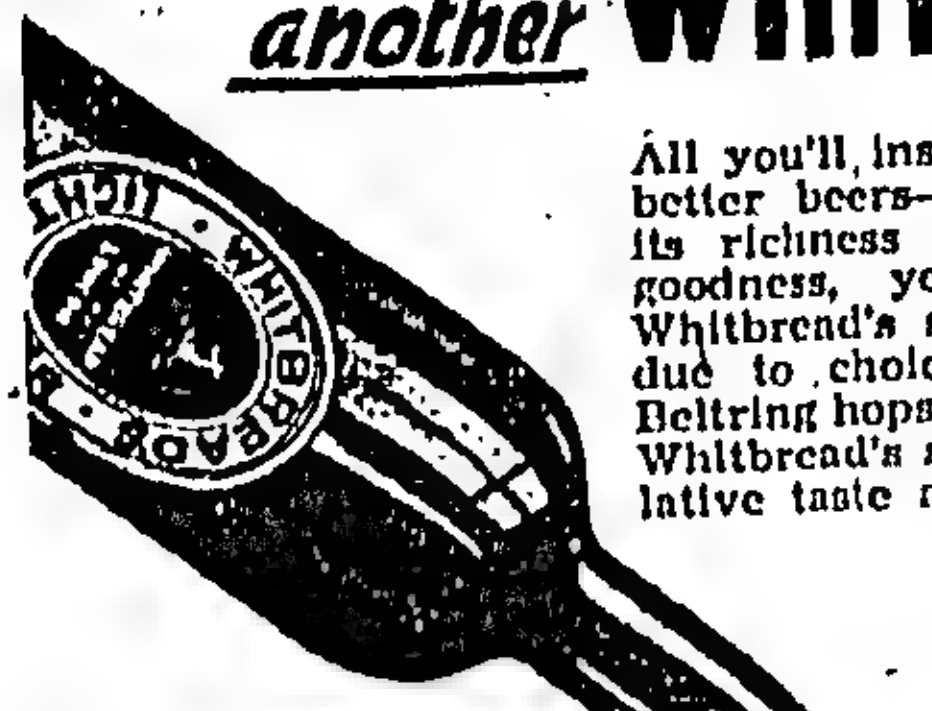

The searching of a Chinese suspected of having contraband on a bus between Fanling and Shataukok by Revenue Officer
W. G. Humphreys on Saturday morning led to the arrest of 15 Chinese who have been detained by the Police on suspicion of being involved in the murder of Chinese detective Li Yim at Shataukok on January 24.

The revenue officer was at the Fanling cross-roads on Saturday when he saw a Chinese behaving suspiciously. The man boarded the first bus that passed, and the revenue officer and his folk followed. On being searched, the man was found to be in possession of two loaded revolvers. He was questioned at the Sheungshui Police Station and information was given which led to a number of raids on boarding houses and dwellings in Shataukok, which were carried out by the Police under Mr G. S. Wilson, Assistant Superintendent-in-Charge of the New Territories.

It is understood that a number of the men will be charged with the murder of the Chinese detective.

LEND & LEASE BILL

THE approval of the Lend and Lease Bill by the House of Representatives is a triumph for the Roosevelt Administration, not only politically, but in its accurate estimate of the present-day temper of American public opinion. Determined, but unavailing was the Republican opposition for the main features of the measure, but the House's approval was assured when amendment after amendment was defeated. The Bill has yet to obtain the "unanimous" vote of the Senate, where a closer vote is likely, but its final approval by Congress is now virtually assured.

The gesture is symbolic of the new and closer relations obtaining between Britain and the United States; it gives practical expression to a real and deep sympathy for the cause of the British Empire against the machinations of the Axis Powers which seek to destroy all those institutions which are held so dear by Americans.

The moral effect of this willingness by the United States to extend all aid possible will be tremendous and beneficial to Britain, where millions of souls calmly await the full might of the German war machine. The knowledge that a large proportion of the vast resources of the U.S. are to be made available to Britain will not only provide a wonderful stimulus to that nation which now has her back to the wall, but a fear-inspiring and discouraging obstacle to Nazi aspirations.

A striking feature of the debates and committee forums in Washington on the Lend and Lease measure has been the highly intelligent and constructive arguments advanced by both sides. There are sound, logical grounds for some of the apprehensions advanced by the opposition. The truth is that the United States is taking a most important, and virtually irrevocable step; its repercussions are destined to be felt throughout the world. It places the United States as the officially acknowledged enemy of the Axis; it is a challenge to them, which, perhaps, they will find themselves unable to ignore. The Bill will well shape the future history of the entire world; its implications are comprehensive to a degree which must impress Japan as much as they will Germany and Italy. When the measure becomes law, the world generally will know that, so far as the United States is concerned, the die has been cast. The thought is both exhilarating and sobering.

Hitler and his gang will curse the day they first made use of the secret weapon that has helped them so far on their evil path

When OUR Fifth Column Is In Action

It is possible that Hitler regarded his Fifth Column as being his most important secret weapon. But, like most weapons, it can be countered, and even in the end turned into a stronger weapon against the original user.

The Nazis to-day occupy several countries, but they have definitely not conquered them. Daily, despite an extreme censorship of all news within these countries of the "New Order," come underground accounts of sabotage and silent, secret warfare against the hated invaders whose one aim appears to be to exploit ruthlessly and without mercy the human and material resources of the occupied territories.

Britain began this war with many disadvantages, the chief one being that Hitler's plans had been crowned with success for six years. To-day we now have the signal advantage that in not one single European country is the Nazi invader even tolerated. He is loathed and hated—hated more and more they will turn savagely on their oppressors, let the cost be what it may.

It is true that for a time the Germans have been able to enjoy the material benefits of occupation. Vast quantities of foodstuffs and stores have been despatched to Germany to provide the doped population with the illusion of victory. But this plunder cannot go on forever, and, at the same time, to try to keep order in the ravaged territories large armies are not tired, nor have their minds lost any keenness. At the head of those who lead the regeneration of the Czechs will undoubtedly be handsome Jan Masaryk, son of the famous founder of Czechoslovakia. His inspired broadcasts ring like a clarion call across the sea to his countrymen; and nobody hearing him can doubt but that the efforts of this dynamical man in the cause of the Czechs do not stop at mere words over the air.

In connection with Czechoslovakia it is a fact of interest and significance that the Nazis are now known to be transferring their war plants from the dangerous west—where the R.A.F. makes free play—to the "safer" east in the countryside of Bohemia. One day wholesale Czech sabotage—a symptom already much in evidence—may destroy most of those war plants which have survived the R.A.F. When the time comes for the British offensive to start there is not the slightest chance that the Germans will be able to divert more than half a million; in Holland, Belgium, Denmark, Poland and Czechoslovakia are a proportion of their forces may have to reduce their present available forces to meet it. Rather they may have to reduce their present available forces co-operating with the inhabitants in a mutual reconstruction of their lands.

On the slightest provocation many millions of persons would rise in fury to exterminate a scourge which is almost without parallel in the history of the world.

The Nursery

Here is the nursery of the Fifth Column against Hitler.

Nothing makes it more clear that this is fully realised by the British than the daily broadcasts in French, Polish, Dutch, Belgian, Norwegian and Czech, doubt that in time they must spoken by "Free" nationals of those unhappy countries.

Just as the broadcasters are well aware that they have tens of thousands of listeners, so the Gestapo are cognisant of this disconcerting fact, but the Gestapo cannot stop messages getting through. They can organise the jamming of broadcasts or attempt to do so. They can hunt out victims—and many of them—but that is not preventing a great number of patriots on the Continent hearing what Hitler least wants them to hear.

The Nazi chiefs are as well aware as the British Government that every body of "Free" nationals organised in Britain has its own army of agents at work among its oppressed fellow countrymen, working relentlessly underground to prepare their minds for the time when a day arrives which will not be "Der Tag" for the Germans.

But again, the Nazis can only weed out the less clever and resourceful of these "Free" agents. Some will assuredly vanish, the others will pursue their grim task.

Czechs To Fore

The spearhead of this anti-Nazi drive is already known to be Czechoslovakia—for the Czechs, swamped and tricked but not pounded by high explosives like the other Nazi victims, stand to the full the real means are not in the shocked state of where their virility has still to recover itself. Their spirits are day they first made use of this burning at white heat. Their secret weapon.

Some Little Fables of To-day

By HANNEN SWAFFER

THEY wandered over the scarred war-fields. The grass was black with powder and with fire that had long gone out.

Things that had been men were lying everywhere, and where once harvests had ripened in the sun-shine was blood and wreckage.

Overhead, smoke gathered into a pall, and the groans and curses of the dying echoed where larks were wont to sing of summer.

"This is the end of all things," said one in an agony of hopelessness, "all that we strove for and dreamed of, all that God meant to us, all that on which we built our hopes of heaven. The Devil, indeed, has won."

But his friend, even amid the horror, was smiling. He had seen, bursting among the chaos, the petals of a flower—the promise of another spring-time. "God's work is still going on," he said, "it is with the stricken earth, so 'tis with the souls of men!"

A MAN, riding through a swollen stream, came to a hole in the river bed so deep that the water nearly covered his saddle.

Just then, seeing near him a fine, strapping horse—an animal hands higher than his own—he started to change mounts.

But an old man on the bank knew all about such things. "Never swap horses while crossing the stream," he shouted.

A LOT of lambs were defending themselves against many more wolves. So they dressed themselves in wolves' clothing and looked very fierce.

"Now the wolves will be frightened, and behave like lambs," they said.

When you make war on wolves you must be wolves yourselves.

THE War Lord dreamed. In the Land of Shadows the Prince of Punishment meted justice out. "They are your dead," he said, "count them!"

Bodies stretched for miles, bodies that once were strong men in their prime, shapes that, only days before, had leapt with the joyousness of youth, the figures of women yesterday glad in their motherhood, and the lifeless shells that had shone only with an infant's half-born smile.

So, to his long task, the War Lord bent. "You are one out!" thundered the "Well—well!"

tyrant who ruled there, when the War Lord had reckoned up the toll. And again the War Lord reckoned, until the hundreds were thousands and the thousands millions.

"You are still one out!" mocked the tormentor. "You haven't counted yourself!"

Those who first take up the sword point it at their own hearts.

COARSE meat, with race-glasses, filled two hundred and seventy-five motor-cars, and burned eleven hundred gallons of petrol—which the nation wanted—on the journey to the race-course.

As they rode, they passed big bills which implored economy.

"You can't say we're using petrol for pleasure," remarked one, emphasising the last word with a grin, then he went on the course and shouted: "Three to one the field!"

War or no war, you must keep up the breed of horses.

A COOK PHEASANT was plucking his feathers as, before a hen, he strutted in the spring sunshine. There was quite a lot of other pheasants about—he had more rivals than usual this year.

"Men don't seem to have done so much shooting last winter," he said. Every bullet doesn't hit YOU.

HE had finished early two rounds of golf, and had nothing to do. "I may as well go and register," he thought.

But, to his surprise, the doctors rejected him. A varicose vein, or something, in his leg, would not let him march, they said. Besides, he was an inch short.

And so there was nothing in the war that he could do to help his country?

In the window, surrounded by the sort of engravings which the middle classes call Art, was a picture of a very little man wearing a uniform covered with medals, but—wonderful to relate—possessing only one arm and one eye.

It was Nelson.

"He seems to have been a pretty useful cripple," said the rejected man, as he went back to do acrobatic dances at a bottle party.

Even if you lose a toe you can win a battle.

MEMBERS of Parliament wanted to know things, so they asked lots of questions.

"Well," said a Minister. "I'll inquire into wanted to know other things, and they asked more questions."

"Well," said the Minister. "Well—I'll make inquiries."

And at the end, nobody knew anything more than when he started to ask.

Truth lies at the bottom of a well—well!"

NAZI FORCES IN CIVILIAN CLOTHES SAID POURING INTO BULGARIA

Special to the "Telegraph"

NEW YORK, Feb. 10 (UP).—Unconfirmed advices from Zurich assert that thousands of German troops, wearing civilian clothing, have appeared in Bulgaria, thereby apparently substantiating Mr. Churchill's assertion of Nazi infiltration, which is greater than is generally known.

Berlin Reaction
STOCKHOLM, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—Mr. Churchill's reference to Bulgaria in a broadcast on Sunday has caused a sensation in Berlin according to a newspaper correspondent in Berlin who says that competent quarters there deny that German troops have entered Bulgarian territory and say there is not a single soldier or airman there.

Reference To Aerodromes
STOCKHOLM, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—Mr. Churchill's speech was printed in full in the Stockholm papers. Headlines specially emphasized the reference to Bulgarian aerodromes being occupied by German ground personnel.

Humphreys Estates Hold Annual General Meeting

Although the profit on the past year's working was $20,000 less than the previous year, Messrs Humphreys Estate and Finance Co. Ltd. declared a seven per cent. dividend on 200,000 shares involving $140,000, at the annual general meeting of the Company held this morning in the Jacobean Room of the Hongkong Hotel.

Mr D. E. Clark was in the chair and was supported by Messrs J. Scott Harston and J. M. Alves (Directors), Mr J. L. Que (Secretary) and the following shareholders: Messrs C. B. Brown, L. Kadoorie, P. C. Potts, T. Ramsay, W. J. Hansen and W. C. Lee.

Mr D. E. Clark, making his annual report, said: "I regret that the result of the year's working is not so favourable as the preceding year, the profit of $181,272.04 being in round figures some $20,000 less. The evacuation of women from the Colony in July left us with a number of empty tenements and, in the case of our Kowloon properties, we felt it right to grant special reductions in rental to tenants who wished to retain their flats notwithstanding the evacuation of their families. Expense items are generally higher and interest is up by over $7,000."

War Taxation
War taxation appears for the first time in the accounts under the heading Property Tax. This amount, viz., $11,330.48 is for nine months only. The amount payable for the full 12 months, i.e., up to March, 1941, being $15,110.30.

A donation of $5,000 was made to the South China Morning Post Bomber Fund and we feel that this will meet with your approval.

Items in the Balance Sheet are very similar to the previous year with the exception of investments which have been reduced by $48,150. There was a small loss incurred by the sale of these of $2,094.50.

We have no building programme at the moment, although we have a large area of land in Argyle Street undeveloped. When normal conditions prevail the development of this area will have to be considered.

Allocation
I do not think there are any further matters to which I can usefully refer and I now propose that the amount available for appropriation be allocated as follows:—

Pay a dividend of 7 per cent. on 200,000 shares $140,000; transfer to General Reserve $25,000; transfer to Building Improvement Account (Bringing same up to $75,000) $3,027.50; transfer to Special Repairs & Renewals Account (Bringing same up to $15,000) $10,277; Carry forward $39,507.07.

Mr T. Ramsey seconded the adoption of the Report and Accounts which were carried unanimously.

Mr J. Scott Harston, Mr J. M. Alves and Mr L. J. Davies the retiring Directors, were re-elected for the ensuing year on the proposal of Mr Clark seconded by Mr Brown.

Messrs Percy Smith, Seth and Fleming and Messrs Linstad and Davis, were re-elected auditors at a remuneration of $600 each on the proposal of Mr W. J. Hansen seconded by Mr W. C. Lee.

ANTI-GAS GUARD

British Prepared Against Invasion

LONDON, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—Preparation for the defence of Britain against invasion will take full account of the possible use of gas by the German Army and Air Force and steps will be taken to counteract this use, which will probably come chiefly from the skies and the seas.

Britain has pledged herself under the Geneva Protocol of 1925 not to use gas unless this is first inflicted on her in war. Thus the initiative in its use must remain with Germany, who introduced the weapon in the last war.

Germany has also pledged herself not to use it again but may follow the example of her Axis partner, Italy, in the conquest of Abyssinia.

The Germans are not believed to possess any new gas. Indeed, scientists consider that no new gas which can be used in chemical warfare exists. What would be new would be some hitherto unforeseen method of using the weapon.

A Boomerang
Whole-scale use of gas to terrorise the civilian population is hardly likely for this is a weapon which recoils on the user.

Complete safety against all poison gases is provided by the service gas mask and the civilian gas mask, the only difference between the two respirators being that the former is designed to stand up to field conditions.

Also statistics show that even in the last war, the percentage of fatal casualties and permanent disabilities from gas was lower than from any other cause.

ATTACKS REPULSED Greeks Hurl Back Italians

LONDON, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—Another Italian counter-attack against newly-won Greek positions in the Kilsura area has been driven back with heavy losses to the Italians, according to a Greek press military statement broadcast by the Athens radio.

The statement says: "Like previous attempts, this attack was completely smashed and the Italians were beaten back in great disorder."

The statement adds that the situation on the Albanian front continues to be highly satisfactory. Further advantage points have been secured by the Greek forces, particularly on the central front.

Four Counter Attacks
LONDON, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—Four Italian counter-attacks have been repulsed in the last 24 hours.

Reports from Athens reaching here state that two of these counter-attacks took place west of the River Drin, where Italian infantry had been ordered to penetrate the Greek lines. They failed owing to the violent Greek fire, leaving behind dead and wounded.

Another of the counter-attacks was attempted in the region of Kilsura.

Salonica Raided
ATHENS, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—The fifth century Salonika Cathedral of Saint Sophia damaged in an air raid yesterday, is to be repaired immediately following orders of the Premier, Mr. Korizis.

One part of the building has almost entirely collapsed but the mosaics of the cupola have not suffered much. Crowds massed round the Cathedral after the "all clear" and demonstrated against the vandalism.

Wilson Transferred To Govern Cirenaica

CAIRO, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—Lieutenant General Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, G.O.C. British Forces in Egypt, has taken over command of Cirenaica as Military Governor and General Officer Commanding-in-Chief, it is announced.

The appointment of Lieutenant General Wilson and the creation of a political branch of G.H.Q. means the establishment of an administration for occupied territory in accordance with International Law.

It is pointed out here that military occupation has no bearing on the subsequent disposal of territory or ratification of frontiers, which are matters to be decided at a peace conference.

As a result of his appointment, General Wilson has relinquished his command of British troops in Egypt. His successor is likely to be announced in a few days.

"R. Abbit's" Cricket Comments Attire, Etiquette On The Field

Fenton's Splendid Feat Against R. Engineers

The rain on Saturday last washed out all the cricket and most of my notes. I was not aware of it, but apparently a scratch team of K.C.C. which managed to total nine members in all, took on the Sappers on Sunday. The only two people who did anything for K.C.C. were Anderson (82 not out) and Mackay (67).

Their 8 wickets produced 193 runs. The best bowling figures returned for the Sappers were those of Denyer which read 9.7-1-45-5. The Sappers' batting however went to bits. Tropp got 22 not out. Ratcliffe 12, and the whole side were out for 62.

Fenton brought off the unusual feat of taking all 10 wickets, his figures reading 9.6-2-30-10. This was a very useful performance even if the batting was not absolutely first class.

Only One

The Recluse, an A side as far as I could see, had a game with the China Light & Power, the chief feature of which seemed to be, and the first time I have ever noted it, that Recluse had only one Gosano playing, I.C.C. and he got 28. A. M. Prata got 41 but they were all out for 111. China Light & Power managed to hit up 83.

Etiquette

I am rather defeated by being asked to discuss cricket etiquette such as "attire, manners during a match." As regards the latter point, cricket manners do not differ from good manners anywhere else. As for attire, the usually accepted costume is a pair of white trousers and white tennis shirt. In W. G. Grace's book of cricket he made the point that a scarf should always be worn as belts were apt to click occasionally as the ball went past, and you were given out lb.w. I think the old type of belt with a hook and eye so to speak, has more or less gone out. If possible white buckskin boots should be worn but they are extremely expensive out here I believe and an excellent line in canvas boots can be got reasonably cheaply. Shoes should not be worn if possible, as apart from the protection to the ankle, they do not give as much support to it in a long day's fielding. Of course I am only referring to the ordinary and usual garb. If you can't arrange anything else it is better to play cricket in shorts and a polo shirt than not to play cricket at all. There are one or two points of detail which are very often ignored. It is etiquette for the Umpire to ask the Captain of the fielding side if he wishes to umpire from point instead of square leg. This has become quite common in the last few years when a left handed batsman is at the wicket, as delay to the game is saved. It is not good sportsmanship for the bowler to run out the batsman at his end for leaving the crease before the ball is delivered unless he has previously warned him that he will do so. It is fairly well known I suppose that a batsman may only have a "runner" with the consent of the opposing captain, which is however, invariably granted, though I believe in the early days of interports, the Shanghai captain was not prepared to let Dr. Jim Lawson have a runner unless Hongkong agreed not to bowl him for the rest of the match! That must have been in the eighties.

Stumping

I am not quite clear why my correspondent asks about this, but possibly he has not access to the rules of cricket. Rule 23 reads "Or, if in playing at the ball, provided it be not touched by the bat or hand, the striker be out of his ground, and the wicket be put down by the wicket-keeper with the ball, or with hand or arm with the ball in hand:—'Stumped.' A point that arises from this rule is contained in the words "it be not touched by the bat or hand." If the ball is struck and the wicket-keeper puts down the wicket in a normal stumping way, no catch having been made, the verdict is "run out." Rule 42 reads "the wicket-keeper shall stand behind the wicket. If he shall take the ball for the purpose of stumping before it has passed the wicket or, if he shall incommode the striker by any noise, or motion, or any part of his person be over or before the wicket, the striker shall not be out." Notice that if the batsman has played the ball the wicket-keeper would be clearly in order in taking the ball in front of the wicket as it is for the purpose of running him out and not for stumping, or at least such is my view.

ATTEMPT FAILS.—Clarence (Red) Burman, of Washington, last month made an unsuccessful attempt to depose Joe Louis from his heavyweight throne. The fight, which took place at Madison Square Garden, ended in the fifth round when the Brown Bomber knocked out the challenger though not before he himself was floored. Burman is a protégé of former champion Jack Dempsey.

Nicki Wan Wins Oriental Heavyweight Boxing Title

MANILA, Feb. 3.—Nicki Wan, light heavyweight champion of China, last Saturday evening literally slugged Young Schmeling, local heavyweight champion, into submission to annex the heavyweight championship of the Orient. The bout ended suddenly in the middle of the 8th round when Schmeling, after taking a terrific pummeling, quit cold and told Referee Manuel Elorriaga he had had enough, thereby giving the bout to the Chinese by a technical knockout.

Schmeling's action came as a surprise, as he all but belted Wan in the 6th round when he connected with one of his looping right haymakers on the Chinese lad's chin and floored him for a four count. When seen in his dressing room after the fight Schmeling said he did not know what he was doing and indicated he was out on his feet.

"All I remember is that I was running after that Chinese trying to connect with another right, hoping to end the fight," Schmeling said. "But I was mighty tired and when all of a sudden I didn't know what I was doing and I wanted to rest so I guess that's why I quit. I realized after I came to my senses in my corner that I shouldn't have quit, that I should have kept on until he knocked me out but I guess I was out on my feet."

Schmeling Too Flabby

As predicted if Schmeling failed to knock Wan out in the early part of the fight he would either be badly out-punched or belted out himself by the fast-stepping Chinese champion. Although he put in some stiff training for the fight, Schmeling was still too flabby and lacked the stamina to go a gruelling 10-round bout at the pace set by Nicki Wan. He tipped the beam at 194 pounds while Wan weighed in at 180.

Nicki Wan did not look as effective against Schmeling as he did in his workouts but that was probably due to the fact that he was wary of Schmeling's terrific right-hand punch. And he had a good taste of it in the very first round when he stepped one on the jaw. He did not fully recover from that blow until the third round, he said after the fight and that was why he was so cautious.

In the third, Nicki had Schmeling on queer street as he peppered him with short punches to the face and tummy and he continued boxing rings around the local batter in the fourth and fifth.

Nicki Nearly Out

The highlight of the bout came in the sixth when Schmeling drove Nicki to the ropes and landed a terrific right to the chin which floored the Chinese. The fight could have been finished in that round if Schmeling had taken his time and landed just one more punch. But as it was Nicki stood up after a count of four, covered his face for a while and then had sense enough to go into a clinch until the bell came to his rescue. It may be said in passing that Nicki Wan displayed the heart of a lion in the way he came back after that punch. Any other fighter would probably have stayed down for the full count.

When the seventh round opened the fans expected Schmeling to tear into the Chinese and stow him away for keeps but instead, Schmeling held back and it was Nicki who did the leading. Schmeling was apparently waiting for an opening to land another right-hand punch but he didn't get the opening as Nicki darted in an out and offered him on target.

In the eighth Nicki rushed out of his corner as the bell clanged and landed four blows to the head and body before Schmeling knew what it was all about. Schmeling made a weak attempt to land a looping right but Wan dodged it and came in to hit the local scrapper in unmerciful fashion, and it was obvious that Schmeling was ready to collapse. When Nicki let up a bit Schmeling turned to the referee and said: "No more, I quit."

It took the Chinese to get something in Nicki Wan. The 20-year-old fighter is fast for a big man, is cool under fire, and proved that he has the courage and heart of a lion. Not since George Washington Lee came to Manila almost 20 years ago to battle the great Pancho Villa, has China sent a fighter here of championship calibre.

One Time OGPU Chief Found Dead In U.S.A.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 (Reuter). — General Krivitsky, stated to have once been Secret Police Chief in Soviet Russia, has been found shot dead, according to Louis Waldman, an attorney.

The General is said to have been going under the name of Samuel Ginsberg. Waldman said that he obtained the information from detectives, who told him that Krivitsky shot himself, but the attorney did not believe this.

Krivitsky, he said, had been co-operating with the United States Federal Investigation Bureau. He came to the United States several years ago and later visited England, but returned to America last October. Krivitsky gave evidence on October 19, 1939, before the Congressional Committee on un-American activities. He said that he broke with Stalin because he refused to take an active part in the purge of the Communist Party in 1930 and 1937.

CHINA FIGHTING REPORTS

SHUHHING, Feb. 10 (Central News). — Fighting has broken out again on the Chungshan-Sunwei border regions.

About 1,000 Japanese and puppet troops from Chungshan made a forced landing at Tsuchong, and other points on the coast, and on January 6, they encountered stubborn Chinese resistance and withdrew towards night.

The following morning they made an attack at Pakao, and Wengyeungshan in the district of Chungshan, but met with equally strong resistance and suffered heavy casualties. Falling to make any headway, they sent a column in the afternoon to attack Wangshan in the Sunwei district.

Federal Debt

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 (Reuter). —The Federal debt limit was increased to $65,000,000,000 and Federal Tax exemptions were removed from future issues of Federal Government obligations by a vote of the House of Representatives to-day.

STOCK EXCHANGE STRENGTH OF GILT EDGED HOLDINGS

LONDON, Feb. 10 (Reuter). —On the Stock Exchange to-day, general strength of gilt-edged holdings and of India irredeemable stocks in connection with the mobilisation of Indian dated issues, provided the main feature in the markets.

Elsewhere everything was quiet; the early buoyancy following Mr. Churchill's broadcast mostly was not fully maintained owing to the quietness of trading.

Industrials were narrowly irregular, home rails attracted small buying while among foreign bonds, Belgian and Japanese issues improved. Wall Street was firm.

CAR THAT STARTED RAFFLE

Lady Howard Of Effingham

Reported Detained Under Defence Regulations

LONDON, Feb. 10 (UP). —The "Press Association" learns that Lady Howard of Effingham is being detained under the defence regulations. Lady Howard is a Hungarian, the daughter of a Budapest business man who acquired British nationality by her marriage to Lord Howard.

Her maiden name was Maria Malvin Gertler and she was married in 1938.

Treachery Act Appeal

LONDON, Feb. 10 (Reuter). —Mrs Dorothy Pamela O'Grady, who was previously sentenced to death on charges under the Treachery Act, to-day heard Lord Caldecote in the Court of Appeal announce that conviction quashed.

Her life is spared but on other charges, sentence of 14 years' penal servitude was imposed. Both the trial at Winchester and the appeal were held "in camera."

Probably Messrs Gilman & Co., Ltd., did not fully realise what they started when they gave this beautiful Sunbeam-Talbot Car to be raffled on behalf of the War Fund inaugurated by the "S. C. M. Post" and "The Hongkong Telegraph." A record number of additional prizes have been donated, the total value being approximately $40,000.

More Dominion Airmen Reach British Shores

LONDON, Feb. 10 (Reuter). —The latest contingent of the Dominions' air crews and pilots to arrive in Britain under the Empire Air Training Scheme was welcomed to-day by Lord Cranborne, Secretary for the Dominions.

Lord Cranborne said that he could imagine nothing more exasperating or discouraging to Hitler and his collaborators than to see "this increasing and inexorable wave of the finest pilots in the world coming steadily across the Atlantic not only to defend this island but to strike at the vital parts of Germany."

Lord Cranborne observed that they came at the right moment as by all appearances, the spring campaign was nearly upon us.

Africa War Fronts

British Surprise

CAIRO, Feb. 10 (Reuter). —The British occupation of Mersa Teclai and Karora in Eritrea is announced in a Middle East G.H.Q. communique. Meanwhile pressure on the enemy position about Keren is being continued.

South African troops have now advanced 60 miles inside Italian territory in southern Abyssinia in the Hobok area.

The communique adds that the clearing up of areas up to El Aghella in Libya is proceeding satisfactorily and that intensive patrol activity in Italian Somaliland continues.

New Location

LONDON, Feb. 10 (Reuter). —Mersa Teclai in Eritrea, which has been occupied by the British, is a village on the Red Sea coast forty miles from the Sudan-Eritrea border.

Karora is a small town lying inside the Eritrean border forty miles inland.

It is pointed out in London that this advance into Eritrea from the north would constitute a new movement as to-day's communique is the first to make any mention of this direction.

BELATED REPLY TO A PROTEST

U.S. Mission Said Bombed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 (Reuter). —In reply to the United States protest against the bombing of an American mission in Anglo-Egyptian Sudan last August, the Italian Government has denied that the attack was made by Italian planes.

It declares that according to a report received from the Italian East African High Command, "the report of the bombardment of the mission as broadcast by the British is unfounded, so far as we are concerned."

FROZEN ASSETS

Held In U.S. For Nazi Victims

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 (Reuter). —Foreign assets valued at $4,390,000,000 are "frozen" in the United States, according to a Treasury estimate. These assets belong to countries which are completely or partially occupied by Germany with the exception of $20,000,000 belonging to Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia, which are now incorporated into the Soviet Union.

Figures for other countries are: France, $1,593,000,000; Netherlands, $1,010,000,000; Denmark, $92,000,000; Norway, $175,000,000; Belgium, $760,000,000; Luxembourg, $48,000,000 and Rumania $53,000,000.

Cost of Living In Britain

LONDON, Feb. 10 (British Wireless). —The cost of living index figure in Britain, according to the Ministry of Labour figures, shows a rise of 12 per cent. during last year.

At the beginning of 1940, the index figure was 74 per cent. above that for July, 1914, as compared with 55 per cent. immediately before the outbreak of war in the previous September.

By March 1, the figure had risen to 79 and on July 1 had again risen sharply to 87. It declined to 85 on August 1 but by January 1 this year, it had risen to 96.

Oil And Royal Navy Subdue Italians

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 10 (Reuter). —The British Fleet is the foremost cause of the apparent paralysis of Italy, says the naval correspondent of the Swedish paper, "Stockholm Tidningen."

It is not known, he declares, whether the Italian Fleet and Air Force have taken measures to deal with attacks like that on Genoa. One impression of the paralysis, gained during the last three months, is probably a shortage of fuel, but the foremost is the presence of the British Fleet.

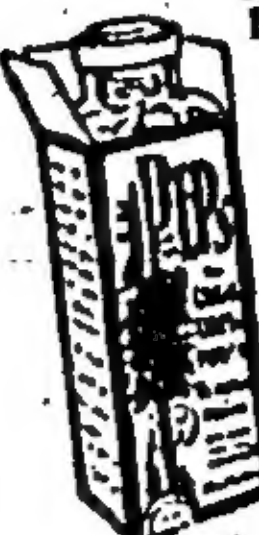

FANCHENG, Feb. 10 (Central News). —A Japanese plane, was brought down by Chinese anti-aircraft guns at Wangchuan, north of Tungshih in south Honan, on February 1.

Keep TROUBLE OFF Your LUNGS

If you're subject to lung-weakening colds, chronic coughs, bad throats or sudden chills, be sure to take Peps antiseptic, breatheable tablets. This precaution keeps trouble from settling on your lungs and developing into pneumonia.

Dissolved in your mouth, a Peps tablet releases rich, medicinal essences, which are carried on your breath deep into your lungs. Thus, the breathing tubes and throat are soothed, and the inflamed membranes quickly healed.

Peps overcomes infectious cold and flu germs, clears the bronchials of congestion and phlegm and stops the worst cough, or cold.

Police Pick Up 21 Girls

A fine of $150 and one month's hard labour was imposed on Wong Sum, 32, when he was charged before Mr K. M. A. Barnett at Kowloon Magistrate's Court this morning with keeping a prostitutes' lodging house at No. 8 Chi Wo Street.

A raid carried out by Police resulted in the finding of 21 girls on the premises; their ages ranging between 10 and 25.

It was said that the girls were sent to Chinese hotels and boarding houses for "business." They were issued with "calling cards" with their respective photographs attached so that would-be customers would not have to call the girls but could choose them from their photographs. Business in such lodging houses was said to be carried out in ways similar to escort bureau. It was stated that from each $1 the girl earns, 35 cents is taken by the keeper.

ful raid on Tripoli, bombs falling on the reception station where a hangar was set on fire.

East Africa
In Italian East Africa, continued support was given to the army offensive. Keren was raided repeatedly. Much damage was caused to stores and motor transport.

At Asmara, South African fighters encountered a number of Italian planes, one enemy machine being shot down and several others badly damaged. Meanwhile R.A.F. bombers raided the town of Asmara.

When enemy aircraft attacked the occupied aerodrome at Agordat, one Italian plane was shot down by anti-aircraft fire.

In Albania
Further South African bombers effectively attacked Badana, Afmadu and the fort at Todenysing.

In Albania a small formation of R.A.F. fighters on patrol in the Kefeyre area yesterday intercepted a large number of enemy fighters. In the ensuing engagement, four Italian planes were shot down and several others were so badly damaged that it is unlikely that they returned to their base.

One British pilot had to abandon his craft, but made a successful parachute descent and returned unharmed to his squadron.

Two Downed At Malta
During the same night, a considerable force of enemy aircraft raided Malta. Damage was caused to private property and a few civilians were injured. Two German aircraft were shot down and others were probably damaged.

From all these extensive operations, four British aircraft failed to return but the pilot of one is safe.

Early Climax In Balkans Expected

the British Minister, Sir Reginald Hoare, presented a note at noon demanding his passports.

Sir Reginald leaves with his full staff of fifty in the first available boat on or after February 15.

Expeditionary Force
LONDON, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—It is confirmed here that the British Government have decided to withdraw their Minister from Bucharest. Official circles in London recalled that some months ago German troops began to arrive in Rumania in small numbers. At this time the head of the Rumanian Government informed the British Minister that these German troops had come to Rumania in man troops to instruct the Rumanian Army in modern methods of warfare. This instruction has no doubt been imparted, but the development is that the German High Command is building up in Rumania all the elements of an expeditionary force and has concentrated at strategic points large quantities of munitions and oil fuel.

Rumanian territory is thus being used by Germany as a military base in furtherance of her plan for the prosecution of the war. These steps are being taken without any word of dissent from the Rumanian Government.

In the circumstances the position of the British Legation became impossible and Sir Reginald Hoare has been instructed to withdraw his mission and the consular officers under his control. That withdrawal will take place within the next few days.

Legation in London
LONDON, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—The Rumanian Legation in London has received instructions so far from Bucharest about withdrawing. "Reuter" learns that the decision whether to withdraw naturally lies with the Rumanian Government and if General Antonescu instructs the Charge d'Affaires to ask for passports there would be no difficulty about the departure of the Rumanian Mission.

To Meet Hitler
LONDON, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—General Franco, Dictator of Spain, and his Foreign Minister, Senor Serrano Suner, are to meet their German opposites, Hitler and Ribbentrop shortly, according to reports from Spain to-night.

Berlin, Rome and Vichy
ZURICH, Feb. 10 (UP).—It is reliably reported that Senor Serrano Suner, the Spanish Foreign Minister, left Spain this morning to visit Vichy and Berlin, and possibly Rome.

Vichy Denial
VICHY, Feb. 10 (UP).—In connection with the rumours from abroad that General Franco and Senor Serrano Suner are enroute to Berlin via Vichy to-day, a Government official asserted that no arrangements have been made for such a journey.

Documents On Ozumi Plane

Chinese Announcement

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

CHUNGKING, Feb. 10 (UP).—General Pai Chung-hsi of the Standing Committee of the Central Executive Committee of the Kuomintang disclosed that the remains of Admiral Ozumi will be transferred to Kunlunkwan, Kwangsi, to be buried with his compatriots fallen in the famed battle of Kunlunkwan, with due rites, while Rear-Admiral Suga and the seven other Japanese officers will be buried at Tientsin.

General Pai said that the first batch of documents which were salvaged from the plane have already been sent to Chungking, proving that Admiral Ozumi and his party were commissioned to proceed to Hainan from Canton to direct the southern expansion invasion. He said that he expects the remainder of the documents from Kwangtung authorities soon.

NAZI RAID ON ISLAND

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

BERLIN, Feb. 10 (Dome).—The High Command reported that Nazi planes attacked and machine-gunned the British airport at Reykjavik, Iceland, and secondly raided and sunk 24,500 tons of merchant shipping off Portugal.

London Comment
LONDON, Feb. 10 (Dome).—Authoritative circles described the Nazi attack on Iceland as a periodical reconnaissance flight. It is reported that there have been no casualties.

Mrs. Sheriff Is Surprised

MRS CHRISTINE STELLA WAY, of Garthmyl Hall, Garthmyl, Montgomeryshire, nominated at the Law Courts for the office of sheriff of her county, said, "I hope not."

The first woman sheriff, Mrs. Foster Welch, was elected for the county borough of Southampton in November 1920.

WELLINGTON, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—The manufacture of munitions has become an important part of New Zealand's war work, said Mr Sullivan, Minister of Supplies, to-day.

The production of munition covers Bren gun carriers, trench mortars, bombs (including high explosives), steel helmets and small arms.

Minesweepers are being built and an improved type will soon be produced.

WELLINGTON, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—"Our thoughts and prayers are with you," cabled Mr Peter Fraser, the New Zealand Premier, sending hearty congratulations to-day to Mr Churchill on his "splendid address."

"Its inspiring and heartening character will strengthen the will and fire and spirit of all British peoples throughout the world in their determination to complete the task to which they have set their hand," said Mr Fraser.

Mr Fraser also cabled congratulations to General Wavell from the Government and people of New Zealand on the capture of Benghazi.

At Calais
The air raids on Calais docks proved even more successful and bombs were showered on many parts of the harbour.

The pilot of one aircraft said that he watched the bombs explode and saw bursts lift shipping clear out of the water. The crew saw the bottoms of some small craft as they overturned and fell back completely wrecked.

A direct hit was obtained on a goods train on a railway near the docks.
